GOTCC Sponsor Trinity Worldwide Technologies has a warning to keep you protected: There is a new variation of the Google Docs phishing scam that is sweeping the Internet. The attack arrives via email, often from a contact you may know and invites you to log into Google Docs to share the information they are sending you. The link in the email takes you to an official looking Google Page, and may even have your Google account listed. However, they are simply trying to collect your username and password to compromise your account and data. If you receive an email like this, please delete it. If it is from a contact you know, contact them directly to let them know their account has been compromised. Trinity offers a full array of IT and Cyber Security support. If you need their help, contact them at 732-780-8615 or support@trinitywww.com.
