

J-Serve: Teens join fire safety professionals for day of service

Lisa Karasic, Contributor

Published 3:43 p.m. ET May 10, 2018

What we're working on for Memorial Day Weekend. Jenna Intersimone/Staff Video

(Photo: ~Courtesy of Jewish Federation of NJ)

CONNECT TWEET LINKEDIN COMMENT EMAIL MORE

SAYREVILLE – Jewish teens from Monmouth and Middlesex counties came together for the global teen service initiative, J-Serve, on April 22. The stated goal of the event, hosted by the Middlesex County Fire Academy, was to make the world a better place.

In addition to performing various community service projects, teen participants learned, through live fire and rescue demonstrations, how public safety professionals carry out their commitment to serving the community in times of danger, crisis or need.

This year's J-Serve planning was led by a teen advisory committee – among them Jake Robbins, of Manalapan, and twins Ava and Emily Schwartz, of Highland Park.

READ: Bridgewater JCC seder offers intergenerational, inclusionary focus

READ: 'And you should teach your children': The dialogue of Passover

"It is my responsibility as a member of the Jewish community to educate the next generation," said Robbins. "That is what I do to serve my community and that's what J-Serve does for the Jewish people as well."

ADVERTISEMENT

"Being on the teen committee for J-Serve was a great experience! It gave me the opportunity to reach out and help my community in a way I had never done before," said Ava Schwartz. "After working hard to plan the event, it was rewarding to see other teens help those in need. I am so glad to be a part of this meaningful project."

Emily Schwartz added, "Working on the teen committee for J-Serve 2018 was very inspiring to me as a Jewish teen. I learned a lot about planning and communication as well as why it is important to give back to the community, and how this can be done in such a fun and impactful way. I learned a lot from J-Serve and I hope that the day inspired all of the Jewish teens who attended to continue service for their community and gain an understanding of why this is so important."

Participants earned community service credits – recognized by public and private schools, National Honor Society, and on college applications – for engaging in such hands-on projects as:

- Helping at a local food pantry
- Starting a garden for preschool children
- Making teddy bears with children with special needs
- Decorating mezuzahs and candle sticks for Houston families who lost their homes in Hurricane Harvey
- Making video greetings for lone IDF soldiers in Israel
- Visiting with Holocaust survivors to hear their stories then make commemorative gift for the survivors
- Learning how to advocate for Israel
- Learning basic emergency response with Hatzalah EMS
- Socializing with seniors at an assisted living home

"JSERVE encourages teens to consider the causes they care about and participate in efforts to help those who are less fortunate, said Susan Antman, the Jewish Federation's Executive Vice President. "The Federation is proud to inspire young people to act on their values of caring. It's thrilling to witness them discovering that

Give a gift that strengthens the Jewish people and your gift will be TRIPLED.

DONATE NOW

FROM THE USA TODAY NETWORK

These sites are part of the USA TODAY NETWORK. Their content is produced independently from our newsrooms.

MORE STORIES

their contributions matter."

J-Serve is The International Day of Jewish Youth Service, with tens of thousands of teens around the world each year performing acts of loving kindness, justice and charitable giving. Local Jewish youth group, BBYO, and the Jewish Federation in the Heart of New Jersey were the lead sponsors of Monmouth and Middlesex counties' 2018 J-Serve, supported by additional Jewish youth groups: NCSY, NFTY, USY and CTEEN, as well as the global, non-sectarian Good Deeds Day.

The Jewish Federation in the Heart of New Jersey is the non-profit organization that convenes partners from the public and private sectors in the Jewish, interfaith and civic arenas, as well as private donors, to strengthen the wellbeing and future of all Jews. The Federation cares for the vulnerable, connects people to communal resources, responds in a crisis, and cultivates a spirit of collective responsibility within the Jewish community. Central to its mission is inspiring young people to embrace their Jewish identity and values of social justice.

Don't miss a thing

Subscribe now to get everything you need to know about local news, education, politics, things to do, restaurants and more. Download our apps by searching for MyCentralJersey in your app store or use these links from your device: iPhone app | Android app for phone and tablet | iPad app Don't forget to 'like' us on Facebook!

May 21, 2016, 6 p.m.

Middlesex Boro police, firefighters to be honored
May 22, 2016, 6:06 p.m.

Off-duty trooper from Bedminster dies in Pennsylvania crash
May 21, 2016, 6:56 p.m.

YOU COULD SAVE $668
when you switch to Progressive

AD CONTENT

Sponsored Links by Taboola

Remember Her? Take A Deep Breath Before You See What She Looks Li...
Miss Penny Stocks

10 Things Parents Should Know About College Savings Plans
NJBEST 529 College Savings

Identical Sisters Born in 2010 Have Grown Up To Become Most Beautiful...
Give It Love

Mama Bear Pleads To Man To Save Her Drowning Cubs
KiwiReport

Can You Name This Biblical Figure? Most Christians Can't Topixoffbeat

Body Gestures You Should Avoid in the Workplace (22 Examples)
Work + Money

MORE STORIES

Fatal crash on Route 31 in Glen Gardner
MY CENTRAL JERSEY | 4 days ago

Healthwise: Seeing skin safety in a different light
MY CENTRAL JERSEY | 27 hours ago

Boy with severe cardiac defect is heart of South Amboy baseball team
MY CENTRAL JERSEY | 2 days ago

Super Foodtown, True Value may replace Pathmark in Middlesex Boro
MY CENTRAL JERSEY | 4 days ago

Find Your People

