

Spill the Tea and coffee too

Back-to-School Transitions for 2- to 20-Year-Olds with Mom & Blogger Jennifer Meer

Friday, September 21 | 10:30 a.m. to noon
At the home of Rachel Schilberg
74 East Maxwell Drive, West Hartford

Light refreshments, tea and coffee | Laws of kashrut observed

How does your family handle the back-to-school transition? Whether you have kids going off to college or heading to preschool, come connect and share ideas at our first "Spill the Tea" parlor chat! We'll be joined by Jennifer Meer, a mother and blogger who has been featured on BlogHer, The Huffington Post, Kveller, Parenting.com, Scary Mommy, The Washington Post and more.

RSVP by Friday, September 14 to Simone Singh at ssingh@jewishhartford.org or 860.727.6101

About "Spill the Tea"

Over the coming year, we'll be holding "Spill the Tea" discussions for women on topics such as parenting, careers, Jewish education, disability inclusion and social action. We'd love to have your suggestions! Please contact Meredith Chandler at mchandler@jewishhartford.org or 860.727.6125 to share your ideas.

Women of Impact