The Six Day War: 50 years later

The Six Day War broke out on June 5, 1967. The military victory of the State of Israel just five days later was monumental. Our small homeland reigned victorious over the forces of seemingly greater powers, including Egypt, Jordan and Syria. The Six Day War became not only a landmark event in Jewish history, but it became a great source of pride for the Jewish pride.

This month we mark the fifty-year anniversary of the Six Day War. For those who remember watching the television and listening to the radio intently during those six days, this milestone re-energizes our pride as Jews and our pride in the State of Israel. For those of us who did not experience this historic event in real time, we may feel the same reaction as the generations before us, or we may not.

We live in a time in which we cannot take anything for granted, especially as Jews. We have witnessed a rise in anti-Semitism in our own country and in many other parts of the world. And

Israel’s demographic future: Crowded and very religious

By Andrew Tobin

TEL AVIV (JTA) – Israel’s projected future looks a lot like a visit to the Jerusalem central bus station: crowded and very religious.

According to a government report, the Jewish state’s population will double in about 40 years. Some 29 percent — or 5.25 million of its projected 18 million residents — will be haredi Orthodox Jews. That’s more than triple the current 9 percent.

Raz and Yonatan led the students at Shmuel Bass Torah Academy in an interactive song about Israel. For details on their visit to San Antonio, SEE PAGE 4.

REBIRTH AFTER THE HOLOCAUST:

The Rebirth After the Holocaust: The Bergen-Belsen Displaced Persons Camp, 1945-1950, photo-documentary exhibit illuminates the inspiring and untold history of Holocaust survivors in the years immediately following their liberation from the Nazis. Bergen-Belsen, a wartime concentration camp, became the largest displaced persons (DP) camp in Germany, at a time when over 250,000 displaced, homeless Jewish survivors sought to recover from the destruction of their families and communities, regain their physical health, and gather the strength and hope to create new families and new homes in new lands. For five years, Bergen-Belsen became a self-governed Jewish community with political, cultural, religious, educational, and social activities that renewed Jewish life and a vibrant center of rehabilitation, reconstruction, and rebirth.

who would have thought we would still be dealing with anti-Semitism in the twenty-first century? The same can be said for Jewish identity. For me, Israel is a core component of my identity as a Jew. I take great pride in the land, the people, the food and the constant innovation and development that takes place daily in Israel. I cannot imagine my Jewish identity without Israel.

But this is not to be taken for granted among younger generations or the generations to come. If we do not engage the next generation of Jews with Israel, we will be in danger of losing Israel as a source of Jewish identity and pride. We have to ask ourselves difficult questions. What are we doing to engage with Israel? Are we going to Israel? Do we invest in sending our youth to Israel? How do we bring Israel to San Antonio? And how do we have uncomfortable conversations about our questions regarding Israel? These are the questions we need to be asking in our board meetings and around our dinner tables.

The Pew Study of Jewish American Life conducted in 2013 found that 94% of Jews in American are “proud to be Jewish.” What we do not know is exactly what about being Jewish they are proud of. I would like to think Israel is a source of that pride, but we need to engage to know the answer. As we celebrate this fifty year anniversary of Israel’s victory, let’s engage in what needs to be addressed in our community so that we can all be proud to be Jewish and of Israel fifty years from now.

“Creating the Responsibly Armed Citizen”
By Lauren Abraham

The Partnership2Gether Western Galilee region selected 11 teens to embark on a yearlong teen leadership program that culminated with a trip to connect with American teens in our consortium cities. Five of the teens enjoyed their last stop on their journey in San Antonio (the other five concluded in Austin).

During their trip to San Antonio the teens met with C-teens from Chabad for a welcome and games night, led Israeli songs and activities with the students at the Shmuel Bass Torah Academy, and had snacks with the eighth graders that recently returned from Israel with from the Eleanor Kolitz Hebrew Language Academy (EKHLA).

The Israeli teens also attended Shabbat services and had dinner with teens from the United Synagogue Youth (USY) Group at Agudas Achim. B’nai Brith Youth Organization (BBYO) hosted the teens for their annual Beau/Sweetie Walk down, and on their final day, the NFTY (North American Federation of Temple Youth) youth group at Temple Beth-El hosted the teens for their end of the year lunch party.

The trip ended with the NCSY (National Conference of Synagogue Youth) chapter at Rodfei Sholom who hosted the teens for a spirited evening of giving as they baked cookies to share with the battered women’s and children’s shelter. The long weekend made for time for the teens to bond with their host families the Saklads and Wolfs and for them to see San Antonio and enjoy a warm Texas welcome.

Special thanks to Dr. Mike Ozer for greeting the students at the airport and to Drs. Laura and Gary Benjamin for helping them with an emergency dental check-up while they were here.

C-Teens from Chabad and the Israeli teens enjoyed a welcome night full of games, food and fun to get to know each other.

Amit, Gil (Chaperone), Noam, Raz, Ronit, and Yonatan enjoyed the BBYO Beau/Sweetie event at the Well.

School’s out for Summer, but hunger takes no vacation

In the summertime, schools are closed, and children who depend on free or reduced lunch often go hungry. For the past seven years, Beth-El Food and Fun Summer Day Camp (BFF) has partnered with the San Antonio Food Bank to alleviate hunger and provide fun activities for children in the neighborhood. The following are facts from the National Food Research and Action Center, the US Census Bureau, and the USDA:

• Over 2 million children in Texas qualify for free meals during the school year.
• Only 12% of Texas kids from low-income families receive summer meals.
• 40-50% of San Antonio children live below the poverty level.
• For many children, the breakfasts and lunches served at Summer Feeding Sites like Beth-El are the only meals they get in a day.
  • 78% of the children who live in zip code 78212 (Temple vicinity) qualify for meal assistance.

This summer, you can help make a difference by volunteering your time or donating funds and/or supplies. Volunteers are welcome as often as you’d like to come, and the experience is more rewarding than you can imagine. You can also earn community service hours, and hours toward the President’s Volunteer Service Award. BFF begins on June 5 and runs through July 28. Hours for camp are 8:00 am to 12:30 pm Monday through Friday each week.

Contact camp co-directors, Kathi Kardon or Robyn Rosen, at BFFSummerDayCamp@gmail.com, or call Kathi at (210) 849-6082 for more information or to volunteer.

Lions of Judah recognized for contributions

On May 16, the Women’s Philanthropy Division of The Jewish Federation of San Antonio honored the 2016 Lions of Judah. These exemplary women were honored for the profound impact they make on the Jewish community in San Antonio, in Israel and around the world.

During the luncheon, the group also honored Esther Vexler, z”l. Her daughter, Jill Vexler, paid tribute to her mother and shared Esther’s greatest attributes as a visionary and trailblazer within the community.

Speaker Lisa Friedman Clark shared her story of tragedy and triumph and the important role Federation plays in supporting Jewish people around the world. Her harrowing story of adversity, resiliency and positivity is what makes her an example of what it looks like to live a life with intention.

A life with intention is what defines the Lions of Judah. The luncheon honored that purpose and celebrated their generosity.

The Lions of Judah are distinguished by their commitment of $5000 or more a year. Laura Ehrenberg-Chesler is the chair of the Lions of Judah and Dr. Amy Benedikt is the Chair of the Women’s Philanthropy Board.

The door opened. The details taken care of. The courtesy done automatically. The word spoken softly and with sincerity. A hand placed just so to steady another’s step. They don’t really define caring, but they’re clues of its presence – pervasive and constant. And unobtrusive.

Because the focus of any memorial, any funeral, isn’t the service being provided. It’s the memory of the life being honored. It’s a lesson Porter Loring learned in his first years in the mortuary profession, and a legacy we’ve remembered and maintained for almost a century.

YOM HA’ATZMAUT: Israel’s 69th Birthday

ISRAEL FOCUS OF COMMUNITY COMMEMORATION AND CELEBRATION

The San Antonio Jewish Community gathered to celebrate Israel’s 69th Birthday on Monday, May 1. The evening was filled with mixed emotions. It began with the service for Yom Hazikaron (Israel’s memorial day for the fallen soldiers) in the Holzman Auditorium as the community heard messages, prayers, songs, and poetry from all of the senior clergy in town, as well as a special message from the Chief of Staff of the state of Israel delivered by Major Yehuda Eldan.

San Antonio welcomed Israeli performer Avi Dayan from the Partnership region in the Western Galilee.

Avi Dayan finished the ceremony with the children of San Antonio as they sang Hatikvah (the national anthem) and Am Yisrael Chai (the land of Israel lives)!

Raphi Sonsino led the Israeli dance troupe in festive Israeli dancing to celebrate Israel.

Israeli singer Avi Dayan sings an opening solemn song at the community-wide Yom Hazikaron Israel Memorial Ceremony.

Greg and Gilad Davis enjoyed reading PJ Library books in the children’s area during Yom Ha’atzmaut.

Robyn Roberto enjoyed the children’s section of the Yom Ha’atzmaut celebration that was sponsored by PJ Library. She is featured decorating her sack to take around the “shuk” (market) to participate in all of the stations.
Dayan sang an opening song at the Memorial service, then at the end of the service he led the children in the spirited singing of Hatikvah and Am Yisrael Chai.

The mood then changed from ceremony to celebration as the event shifted downstairs to the Wulfe gymnasium. In the gym, Dayan and his two daughters Lihi and Koral Dayan performed their show The Heart of Israel which featured Israeli favorites such as Yerushalayim Shel Zahav, Adon Olam, and Hallelujah.

Irene’s Kosher Katering served hot dogs and falafel, and PJ Library sponsored the children’s area where children could build their own Kotel like the wall in Israel. Dancing and singing, along with reuniting with friends allowed for everyone to enjoy the evening in the spirit of support for Israel.

Western Galilee teen delegation visits TASA

Torah Academy of San Antonio students spent time interacting with and getting to know the members of the Teen Delegation of the Western Galilee Partnership Region.

The five members of the Teen Delegation, under the guidance of their mentor Gil Klempert, shared a young person's view of the Israeli experience with TASA students. The Teens and students engaged in games, discussion, and interactive activities, while getting to know about each other.

TASA middle school students discussed the connection between Yom HaZikaron and Yom HaAtzmaut. As one student noted “we go from being super sad to super happy, and it is all connected with how life can really be in Israel.” TASA students came away with a deeper understanding of Israeli life, and a few new friends as well.

Summer enrichment at the JCC

Families looking for enrichment opportunities for their younger children this summer have plenty of options at the Barshop Jewish Community Center. Beginning in early June through July, the JCC will offer a selection of enrichment and sport classes for youth as young as twelve months up to eight years.

For those interested in exploring the arts, Mini Movers offers dance instruction, including basic ballet and tap skills, as well as teaching them to focus on rhythm, timing, and coordination. Rising STARZ is a theatre class that explores drama through puppets, nursery rhymes, acting games, songs, and more.

Sports fans will enjoy kicking the ball in Super Soccer Stars, swinging a bat in the JCC’s Tee-Ball League, or learning how to make a hole-in-one Teens Fore Tots. Children who enjoy tumbling around the house will enjoy Tumblebus, a fully-padded gymnasium on wheels where youth develop gross motor skills through tumbling, coordination, concentration, and balance.

Finally, Little Yogis is a relaxing, playful class that promotes development of body awareness, balance, flexibility, and agility.

Programs are open to the community; JCC Members receive special rates. To find out more about the classes available or to register online, visit www.jccsanantonio.org/register.
Congregation Agudas Achim to host two summer camps

Congregation Agudas Achim will again host two camps this summer. Heintz Preschool of Congregation Agudas Achim is continuing its popular Summer Literacy Camp for 18 months through 8 years old beginning on June 5. There are spots available for Counselors-in-Training (CITs) as well up through 18 years old.

Mad Science camps offer a daily combination of in-class discovery and exploration, outdoor games and physical activities, and hands-on applications of the scientific principles presented. Children will be able to touch, see, hear, smell and taste what science is really all about. Mad Science uses simple, real world science techniques that allow campers to enjoy the learning environment.

Full and half day options are available for both camps. For more information about Agudas or Heintz Preschool, contact Preschool Director Taryn Bretado for information or a tour of Heintz Preschool, (210) 479-0429 or t.bretado@agudas-achim.org.

Show your support for Jewish seniors by enjoying Shrek the Musical on July 23

One of the most successful programs for Jewish seniors in the San Antonio area over the last few years has been Golden Manor Jewish Senior Services’ transportation program that fights isolation by keeping Jewish seniors connected to the broader Jewish community. It’s been so successful that growth in the service has been limited only by limited resources.

To address that situation, GMJSS is holding a fundraiser this year that will appeal to those of all ages. On Sunday, July 23, enjoy a performance of Shrek the Musical, at the Woodlawn Theatre. The show starts at 3pm, and is a great summer-fun opportunity for everyone ages 4 and up – grandparents, grandchildren and everyone in-between.

GMJSS will hold a short annual meeting prior to the musical that begins at 2pm. and is conveniently located at the Classic Theater, 1924 Fredericksburg Rd, just a few doors down from the Woodlawn Theater.

Everyone is invited to attend the annual meeting, and is encouraged to stay after and enjoy Shrek with GMJSS staff, friends and family. Parking is free, valet available, and children will receive a special gift with their purchased ticket.

For Shrek tickets, to RSVP for the annual meeting, or for transportation, please call Lety at (210) 616-4811 or LetyV@GoldenManor.net.

Wandering Jews sets travel itinerary to include 4 trips

Golden Manor Jewish Senior Services (GMJSS) has created a new travel program for seniors with four special trips planned for 2018. Each trip will include some element of Jewish cultural, religious and/or historic content.

In January, travelers will enjoy a 10-night cruise of Eastern Caribbean islands that were among the first homes of European Jews in the New World. In April, travelers can enjoy Seder at Sea and celebrate Passover aboard a cruise ship.

The August trip is a Jewish Discovery River Cruise along the Danube River, from Budapest to Prague; and in the fall of 2018 (October or November) senior travelers can enjoy a long weekend in Charleston, South Carolina, which has had a vibrant Jewish community since before the Revolutionary War.

There is only one sailing of the Danube Jewish Discovery River Cruise each year, and they sell out early. Five (5) cabins have been reserved for GMJSS, and more are still available at this time. People who book by June 6 will receive a $750 per person discount – $1,500 per couple. Additional benefits are also offered.

Although the January Eastern Caribbean cruise (which starts on December 30, 2017) is still 7 months away, experienced cruisers know it’s wise to book early so you’ll have a greater choice of staterooms.

For more information on either cruise, contact Eva Laporte, GMJSS Program Director, (210) 616-4811; eval@goldenmanor.net, or Tina Dinesman or Barb Sellers at Spoil Me Rotten Travel, (210) 670-5305, tdinesman@cruiseplanners.com or bsellers@cruiseplanners.com.
Teachers teaching tolerance

By Lisa Barry and Evie Thompson
Special to Jewish Journal

Woodridge Elementary in Alamo Heights ISD began a unit on tolerance this year. Our students learned about four groups of people in our world through a variety of novels and activities: perpetrators, victims, bystanders and upstanders. To better understand the reasons behind the actions of the people in each group and to allow students to build empathy for others, we used stories from the children of the Holocaust.

The students viewed a short video, Anne Frank, where a modern day Neo-Nazi student travels back in time to learn a lesson. Then, each student was assigned a child of the Holocaust to travel back in time with. Students researched their child and shared a story that was not supposed to be told. Our goal was to tell each story and pay homage to each child.

Inge Auerbacher was one of these children. The students who researched her not only discovered that she was one of the 1% who survived three years in Terezin, but that she was an author of six books, and currently travels the world talking to people about tolerance, perseverance, and her survival. We read Dr. Auerbacher’s book, I Am a Star, as a class, and further fell in love with that dark, curly-haired little girl from Kippenheim. Our students were so taken with all the stories of the children. They were able to identify with them and began to feel they had brought them all back to life!

Unbeknownst to the students, we wrote a grant to the Alamo Heights School Foundation and received funds to not only purchase all the supplies needed for the unit, but we also purchased a plane ticket to fly Inge to San Antonio so that she could present her story to both elementary schools and the high school. The day we told the kids they’d get to meet

See PERSPECTIVE, page 26
How do you make a book a bestseller? Ban it. In 1957, copies of Allen Ginsberg’s Howl were seized by authorities, and its publisher, Lawrence Ferlinghetti, was tried for obscenity. The book was ultimately judged to possess “redeeming social importance,” but the whiff of scandal made Howl one of the most widely read poetry collections in American history.

In 2014, a committee of academic specialists selected a novel called Borderlife for required reading in high school literature classes in Israel. The third novel by Israeli author Dorit Rabinyan, the book recounts a passionate affair between Hilmi, a Palestinian from Ramallah, and Liati, a Jew from Tel Aviv. The Ministry of Education vetoed the idea of adopting it as a school text, warning that the novel might encourage impressionable adolescents to make light of intermarriage. While confessing he had not read it, Minister of Education Naftali Bennett denounced Rabinyan’s book as a threat to Israel’s national identity. Endowed with the tang of forbidden fruit, Borderlife leaped onto Israeli bestseller lists. It has also sold well in the 17 languages into which it has been translated. Since most of the novel takes place in New York, where Hilmi is pursuing a career as a painter and Liati is studying on a Fulbright, it is surprising that the book is only now appearing in the United States. The title of Jessica Cohen’s fluid new English version, All the Rivers, appropriates a line by Israeli poet Avot Yeshurun, which Rabinyan uses as an epigraph. Hilmi, who grew up on the West Bank but never had a chance to visit the Mediterranean, contends that what connects Israelis and Palestinians is more important than what divides them: “In the end all the rivers flow into the same sea.”

A veteran of the Israeli Defense Forces, Liati was conditioned to regard Palestinians as treyf (prohibited). Hilmi has, in fact, spent time in an Israeli prison for painting anti-Zionist graffiti on a Hebron wall. The effort to keep their relationship secret puts a strain on the couple, as does Hilmi’s support for a single binational state and Liati’s for a two-state solution. However, a realization that Liati must return alone to her Jewish life in Tel Aviv concentrates the liaison. “How can you love with a deadline,” asks a friend, “with a stopwatch running?”

While continuing to bar Rabinyan’s novel from required reading, the Ministry of Education altered its stance to allow it as an elective. At least half a dozen films, including A Bottle in the Gaza Sea, have, without much fuss, imagined Capulet/Montague, Israeli/Palestinian romances, and the popular Israeli TV series Arab Labor even features a mixed married couple. By contrast, Crime in Ramallah, an Arabic novel about gay Palestinians that portrays the Palestinian Authority as corrupt, earned its author, Abbad Yahya, death threats and an arrest warrant. If you test taboos, expect lavish royalties or else an early death.

Rodfei Sholom to screen the documentary Faithkeepers on Sunday, June 11

The community is invited to the screening of the newly released documentary Faithkeepers, on Sunday, June 11 at 7:15 pm, at Rodfei Sholom, 3003 Sholom Drive.

Faithkeepers – gives voice to the humanitarian crisis and genocide affecting millions in the Middle East as a result of religious and ethnic persecution.

In the Middle East, people of minority faiths are being violently persecuted, driven out of their homes, and killed. Their places of worship are being destroyed, and their history is being erased.

The film is a testament to the stories of the persecuted and an inspiring portrait of the human spirit.

Faithkeepers – the movie and movement – will awaken, enlighten and inspire all people of faith to stand up and take action.

Sponsored by the Israel Public Action Committee of Rodfei Sholom, tickets are $8/person.

Reservations are required.

For reservations and more information call Rodfei Sholom at 210-493-3557 (ext. 212) or write an email to iparodfei@gmail.com.

her, they were elated! Many had tears in their eyes.

Inge spoke to our high school sophomore class, who sat in utter silence, taking in every word she shared. The next day, she addressed our elementary schools. Our students rehearsed a song penned by Inge called Who Am I?, and greeted her with it as she was introduced to them. This time, she was in tears!

She spoke of hope, being an “upstander,” perseverance, survival, and the importance of simple kindness. Her message is one that is a life lesson for these children. They understand completely what it means to be among the last generation to meet a Holocaust survivor in person. The lessons they learned from this unit and from meeting her will be lessons they will not only never forget; but, will pass along to others throughout their lives.

“Israel will have the highest population density in the Western world,” Sergio DellaPergola, a preeminent Israeli demographer and member of the report’s steering committee, told JTA. “Interestingly, haredim will overtake Arabs as the largest minority.”

The Central Bureau of Statistics revised upward its previous projection, made in 2012, that the population will reach 15.5 million in 2059, with 4.5 million haredim. DellaPergola said the bureau had wrongly assumed Israel’s fertility rate would continue to decline.

If this report proves accurate, Israel — with a land area of some 8,000 square miles — will be more densely populated than the West Bank and the Gaza Strip taken together. But DellaPergola said Israel still has room to expand outside its geographic center, the Tel Aviv-Jerusalem region, in what Israelis call the “peripheria,” or periphery.

“Israel has a huge area that is very underpopulated,” he said. “If you can distribute the population more equally across the periphery, density is not a problem. But I haven’t seen much strategy from the government.”

Israel is growing rapidly mostly because of its birth rate, which DellaPergola said is the highest of the world’s 100 most developed countries, “some of which aren’t that developed.”

The idea is that as the haredi community becomes a bigger part of Israeli society, it must hold its own in the economy — but some current government policies incentivize haredim to remain out of the workforce. Hundreds of thousands of haredi men receive government stipends of $120 to $215 a month to study in yeshiva. Just under half of them do not work, although the percentage has been unevenly decreasing for over a decade.

Haredi families also disproportionately benefit from government allowances of $42 to $52 per child.

“If we focus on policy regarding pro-natality, and specifically integration of the ultra-Orthodox into society, the dramatic growth predictions may not be fulfilled,” Malach said. “It would also be good for the prosperity of the State of Israel.”

Menorah depictions on display in Vatican and Rome

(JTA) — An unprecedented exhibit centered on the image, history and symbolism of the seven-branched menorah has opened in Rome.

Titled Menorah: Cult, History and Myth, the exhibition is a joint project of the Vatican Museum and the Rome Jewish Museum — the first time the two museums have cooperated in this way. It will run through July 23.

Part of the display is installed in the Vatican Museum’s Carlo Magnago exhibition space in St. Peter’s Square, and part of it in the Rome Jewish Museum, located about a mile away in the complex of the Great Synagogue that towers over the Tiber River.

The exhibition, which took 3 1/2 years to organize, includes some 130 paintings, illustrations and other depictions of menorahs from around the world.

Fidget spinner invented to stop Palestinian kids from throwing rocks at Israelis

By Gabe Friedman

(JTA) — Do we have Palestinian rock throwers to thank for the fidget spinner?

The inventor of the ubiquitous stress-reducing toy says she came up with the idea during a trip to Israel in the 1980s, during the First Intifada, as a way to distract the “young boys throwing rocks at police officers.”

Catherine Hettinger told CNN Money that she first brainstormed the gadget while visiting her sister in the Jewish state and hearing about the clashes between Palestinian youth and Israeli security.

She first considered designing a “soft rock that kids could throw,” according to CNN Money.

“It started as a way of promoting peace,” Hettinger said.

But soon after, upon returning home to Orlando, Florida, Hettinger put together the first fidget spinner — a propeller-like toy that spins around a center bearing.

Hettinger secured a patent for the device in 1997, but sales languished for over a decade, and Hasbro declined to market it. Hettinger did not have the money to pay the $400 fee to renew her patent in 2005.

It was not until last year that the fidget spinner became a sensation, appearing everywhere from office cubicles to elementary school classrooms. Some tout the toy as a stress reliever, but others find them disruptive and distracting.
