MESSAGE FROM TJF LEADERSHIP

Rooted in Legacy. Focused on the Future.

EDDIE KRAMER, TJF BOARD CHAIRPERSON

As a native son of this community, I carry with me not only the values passed down by my parents, but the hope I see in the next generation. Serving as Chairperson of the Tidewater Jewish Foundation has only deepened my appreciation for what makes this place special: its unity, its resolve, and its unshakable commitment to the Jewish future.

Over the past year, we've made measurable progress toward the goals outlined in our strategic plan, expanding educational outreach, deepening donor relationships, and growing our philanthropic impact. Our sights remain set on a bold vision: managing $500 million in assets, both current and promised, to ensure that every Jewish institution in Tidewater not only survives but thrives.

But more than numbers, this work is personal. It's about stewarding the trust of families who want to do good. It's about investing in what matters. Our people, our values, and our shared future. Legacy isn't just a plan for tomorrow. It's a reflection of who we are today.

Thank you for believing in this work and for being part of the TJF story.

Five Years In: Built for Resilience, Rooted in Relationship.

NAOMI LIMOR SEDEK, TJF PRESIDENT & CEO

When I joined the Tidewater Jewish Foundation in 2020, I stepped into a community navigating the chaos of a global pandemic. And yet, in the face of isolation and uncertainty, I witnessed something extraordinary: a Jewish community grounded in hospitality, resilience, and a steadfast commitment to one another.

Over the past five years, I've watched that same spirit show up again and again, not just in times of crisis, but in the quiet, powerful choices people make every day. Choices to give generously. To build legacies. To stand with the people of Israel. To fund education, advocate for security, and ensure a thriving future for Jewish life.

This is what TJF is built for. We're not just here to manage resources, we're here to walk with our fundholders at every life stage, to connect values with action, and to offer guidance through every twist in the philanthropic journey.

Whether you're naming a new baby or honoring a life well lived, we are here, because legacy doesn't start at the end. It starts with a conversation. And our community, now more than ever, is ready to lead with heart.

Thank you for letting us be part of your journey.

The Tidewater Jewish Foundation would like to extend its sincerest appreciation to Focus Partners for their continued and generous support of this annual report.

Our Vision

To build and guide exponentially more resources to empower Jewish life across Tidewater and beyond.

Our Mission

To honor the values of tzedakah and tikkun olam by creating permanent, sustainable resources for the Jewish community through planned giving and endowment.

THE JOURNEY

Philanthropy is a journey, and it can begin at any time. At TJF, we walk alongside individuals at every stage of life, from childhood savings to bar/bat mitzvah gifts, charitable bequests, and everything in between. Whether you are beginning to invest in your first fund or shaping your estate plan, we help you leave a legacy that reflects your values and enriches Jewish life for generations to come.

BOARD MEMBER SPOTLIGHT:

Dr. Roger Schultz

A Life in Service, A Legacy in Harmony

ROGER SCHULTZ

BETH SCHARLOP AND ROGER SCHULTZ

For Dr. Roger Schultz, service has always been at the heart of who he is. A retired urologist, Roger joined the Tidewater Jewish Foundation Board of Directors in 2023, bringing with him a lifelong commitment to community, curiosity, and care.

Supported by a Naval Scholarship for medical school, Roger and his wife, and medical school classmate, Dr. Beth Scharlop, moved to Virginia Beach in 1985 when he began his service at Portsmouth Naval Hospital. After completing his military commitment, the couple settled in Williamsburg, where Roger spent 35 years in private practice while also serving on the boards of the Williamsburg Community Foundation and the American Urological Association. Upon retirement, they returned to Tidewater, drawn by their love of the ocean and the bustling arts scene. When asked to join the TJF Board of Directors, he was very honored and eager to help.

“Serving on the TJF Board has been an incredible opportunity to build our Jewish community locally and abroad,” Roger reflects. “TJF does more than manage funds, it helps people think about the legacy they want to leave, whether that legacy is through donation or personal action.”

Roger’s worldview was shaped early. At age 15, he spent four months as an exchange student in Argentina, an experience he describes as transformative. Fluent in Spanish, he credits that time abroad with teaching him to appreciate cultural differences and to remain open to new ideas and perspectives. He was especially moved by the Latin community’s strong sense of family, a value that continues to guide his approach to service and connection today.

Together, Roger and Beth raised two children who share their curiosity and commitment to the world around them. The couple has traveled widely, visiting Israel three times along with destinations including Norway, Morocco, Central Asia, Uruguay, and Antarctica. Next year, they plan to explore Botswana and the Caucasus, adventures that continue to broaden their appreciation of global culture and humanity.

Music is another throughline in Roger’s life. He learned clarinet in grade school and performs with Bagels and Fraylox, a Klezmer band whose name playfully combines a classic Jewish food (“bagels”) with “Freilach,” the Yiddish word for joyful. During the pandemic, he taught himself to play the saxophone, and he now performs on alto sax with Symphonic Artistry, a Southside orchestra.

Both Roger and Beth are dedicated patrons of the visual and performing arts, Beth currently serves as Chair of the UJFT Film Festival Committee, and they share a vision of expanding access to arts and education within the Jewish community.

A Bridge to Israel, Built by Youth

When you speak to students, teachers, or host families who've encountered our ShinShinim in Tidewater, funded in part through the Tidewater Israel Connection Fund housed at TJF, one word comes up again and again: connection. This Fund was created through the generosity of the daughters of Ron Dozoretz* (of blessed memory), Shari and Renee (above).

The ShinShinim program brings Israeli high school graduates to our community for a gap year of immersive service. These young ambassadors live with local families, engage with schools and synagogues, and bring Israel to life through their stories, energy, and heart. It's one of the most powerful ways we connect Tidewater with Israel, not through headlines, but through human experience.

In 2025, the program reached new heights, with over 4,200 community members engaged and more than 130 programs led across the region, from interfaith classrooms to Shabbat dinners, summer camps, and leadership retreats. The impact was profound: children speaking Hebrew for the first time, teens deepening their Jewish identity, and elders feeling renewed pride in the Jewish homeland.

Thanks to a transformative $1 million commitment from the Dozoretz family, the Tidewater Israel Connection Fund was established to be able to support the Shinishinim program collaboration between UJFT and the Jewish Agency for Israel. With their initial investment, we are two-thirds of the way towards securing its future.

"It was like having a piece of Israel in our home," one host family shared. "Our ShinShinim didn't just teach our kids about Israel, they became family."

This is what legacy looks like: personal, impactful, and built on connection.

To support the Tidewater Israel Connection Fund, visit Foundation.JewishVA.org or call (757) 965-6111.

To ensure the ShinShinim program continues year after year without reliance on annual fundraising, we must raise an additional $500,000, from the community to ensure perpetual support.

We invite you to join this effort, whether by giving, hosting, or sharing your passion for Israel.

Donor Spotlight

Throughout Jewish history, women have been the heart of community; keepers of tradition, strength, and compassion. That legacy continues in Tidewater through the Lion of Judah Endowment (LOJE), a circle of women whose generosity ensures that Jewish life thrives for generations to come.

LOJE represents women who have endowed a gift of $5,000 or more each year to the United Jewish Federation of Tidewater (UJFT) Annual Campaign, supporting vital programs locally, in Israel, and across the globe. Each endowed Lion wears a golden Or L'Atid flame on her Lion pin, meaning "Light Unto the Future." It's a symbol of enduring love for the Jewish people and a promise that her light will never fade.

LOJE funds, housed and administered by the Tidewater Jewish Foundation (TJF), provide lasting impact, funding education, caring for families in need, supporting Israel, and strengthening Jewish identity in perpetuity. As TJF President & CEO Naomi Limor Sedek explains, "When a woman creates a LOJE, she's not just making a financial gift. She's inscribing her story into the legacy of our community. Her generosity becomes eternal."

Together, Tidewater's LOJE women embody the power of legacy and leadership. Their collective generosity reminds us that women's philanthropy is not only about giving; it's about belonging, sustaining, and believing in a brighter Jewish future.

LIGHTING THE WAY FORWARD MEANS:

Susan Alper

"...honoring those who inspired me to give and building on their generosity by setting an example for others. My clients, thoughtful people who understood the impact they could have, showed me what true philanthropy looks like. Their generosity continues to guide how I give today."

Alicia London Friedman

"...having been part of Jewish Tidewater for five generations, I want my endowed gift to carry forward my family's commitment to strengthening our community. My support of UJFT reflects the causes closest to my heart, locally and abroad, and ensures that giving continues in perpetuity."

Janet Mercadante

"...ensuring a strong Jewish future, here and across the world. I strive to pass that value to my children, knowing that legacy giving helps our community thrive for future generations."

A Partnership on Strengthening Today, Securing Tomorrow.

NAOMI LIMOR SEDEK, PRESIDENT & CEO, TJF AND BETTY ANN LEVIN, PRESIDENT & CEO, UJFT

In FY 2025, nearly $3.274 million was distributed to UJFT, the Simon Family JCC, and the Sandler Family Campus from LOJE/PACE funds, donor-advised funds, and other foundations.

The partnership between the Tidewater Jewish Foundation (TJF) and the United Jewish Federation of Tidewater (UJFT) reflects a shared commitment to sustaining Jewish life, today, tomorrow, and well into the future.

Together, we empower donors to support the causes that matter most: UJFT through annual giving and TJF through legacy planning. From PJ Library and Jewish education to advocacy, security, and Israel engagement, these programs benefit from both immediate funding and the stability of endowed support.

TJF serves as the steward of community assets, including donor-advised funds, PACE (Perpetual Annual Campaign Endowment) funds, LOJE (Lion of Judah Endowment) funds, and newly created Area of Interest funds, while UJFT and other community agencies and synagogues activates those resources through dynamic programs and services today.

As this partnership continues to grow, so does its reach, ensuring that the needs of the Jewish community are met with purpose, strategy, and care.

2025 BY THE NUMBERS

INVESTMENT REPORT FOR THE YEAR

Ended June 30, 2025

Investment returns during the fiscal year that ended June 30, 2025 were led by equities. The AI theme continued, although with some pullback during 3Q 2024 and 1Q 2025. During the first quarter of 2025, domestic equities suffered losses with the Russell 1000 Growth Index losing 10.0%, while the value index gained 2.1%. Domestic growth lead value style by over 3.5%. Global markets were strong with the MSCI ACWI index gaining 16.2% for the year. Developed international equities have surpassed their domestic counterparts for the calendar year to date period, which represents a reversal in favor from U.S. equities that have dominated for over a decade. Trade tensions, slowing growth, and a weakening U.S. dollar have contributed to foreign equity's outperformance. During the equity market volatility, bonds and alternative assets have shown their diversification benefits. The Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Bond Index total return was 6.1% for the year, and hedge funds, represented by the HRFI FoF Composite Index, were up 7.1%.

Tidewater Jewish Foundation Investment Metrics Report 6/30/2025 pages 2, 6, and 10

Inflation has once again proven to be more persistent than expected and has prevented the Fed from reducing rates during the fiscal year as was expected a year ago. The Federal Reserve's Open Market Committee (FOMC) maintained high interest rates that weighed on mortgage rates and the real estate market's recovery since the pandemic.

The Tidewater Jewish Foundation's main pool invested through its partnership with the JCEP, LLP, returned 18.4% for the fiscal year almost doubling the blended index target at 9.4%.

The portfolio also outpaces JCEP's reference portfolio (60% MSCI ACWI / 40% Intermediate Treasury) for all trailing time periods. The portfolio ranked in the first percentile, leading 99% of other Endowment and Foundation portfolios in a peer universe of 330 funds with assets greater than $50 million. Strong contributors to performance were long-only equity managers gaining 26.7%, private investments at 18.7%, and marketable alternatives at 17.6%. U.S. Equity managers had the greatest 1-year gain of 36.4%, followed by Global equities managers at 36.2%. JCEP also contributes its strong performance to downside protection during periods of market volatility, as illustrated by risk-adjusted metrics. For the trailing ten-year period, the portfolio captured 119% of the index in up markets and only 85% in down markets.

The investment markets and economy have shown resiliency despite uncertainty with trade policy, tariffs, and an ever-increasing federal deficit. Interest rates have been maintained high by the FOMC for the past year. With the recent weakness in the labor market and ticks up in inflation prints, the FOMC has indicated rate cuts would begin in September. Continuing rate cuts will be dependent on further weakness in the labor market with inflation becoming a secondary factor.

Life & Legacy: Strengthening Our Community, One Commitment at a Time

Since its launch, the Life & Legacy program, powered by the Tidewater Jewish Foundation (TJF) and the Harold Grinspoon Foundation, has transformed how our local Jewish organizations approach long-term sustainability. Through strategic training, personalized coaching, and marketing support, TJF has partnered with area synagogues, schools, and agencies to help them secure after-lifetime gifts, building reliable streams of future support.

“This program is about more than fundraising, it’s about future-proofing Jewish life,” said Naomi Limor Sedek, TJF President & CEO. “We walk alongside our partners, giving them the tools and confidence to have meaningful legacy conversations.”

TJF’s role is hands-on: providing agency teams with structured learning, individualized guidance, and incentive grants for achieving goals. Amy Weinstein, TJF Director of Development, shared, “We’ve seen incredible growth. Agencies that were once hesitant to discuss legacy giving now have dedicated teams, clear processes, and inspiring success stories.”

In just a few years, Tidewater’s Life & Legacy partners have secured hundreds of commitments, representing millions in future gifts. Together, we are ensuring that the institutions we cherish today will thrive tomorrow.

Partner agencies agree the results speak for themselves.

“Life & Legacy has helped us open conversations we never thought possible, We now have commitments that will sustain our school’s mission well into the future.”

“With TJF’s guidance, we’ve built a framework for legacy giving that aligns with our values and our members’ passions. The support has been invaluable.”

“This partnership has been a game-changer. We’re not just raising money, we’re strengthening the educational foundation for the future of the Jewish community: our children.”

Donor Advised Fund Holders (DAF)

Individuals holding a TJF Donor Advised Fund streamline their giving, benefiting their chosen causes with enhanced tax advantages and reduced administrative tasks. These fundholders have made a significant impact through numerous distributions to a wide array of organizations, both locally in Tidewater and globally. Notably, around 80% of these contributions have been directed towards Jewish organizations and initiatives, underlining a strong commitment to supporting Jewish causes.

Honoring the Past, Inspiring the Future:

Kurt and Rose Rosenbach, of blessed memory, were among the earliest champions of endowment giving in Tidewater’s Jewish community. Their vision and generosity helped secure the future of Ohef Sholom Temple and inspired others to give with purpose. Today, their daughter Marcy and son-in-law Paul Terkeltaub proudly continue that legacy leading within temple life, honoring Kurt through an award in his name, and serving as dedicated fundholders at TJF. The next generation, Brandon and Callah Terkeltaub, are raising their son Leo with the same commitment to tzedakah and tikkun olam. They, too, are planning their own legacy to ensure a vibrant Jewish Tidewater for generations to come. From Kurt and Rose to Marcy and Paul, and now to Brandon and Callah, the Rosenbach-Terkeltaub family embodies the true spirit of l’dor v’dor; from generation to generation.

Support the future of Jewish education while maximizing your tax savings with TJF!

Through the Virginia Education Improvement Scholarship Tax Credit Program, donations to TJF qualifies donors for a 65% Virginia state income tax credit on the amount you give toward supporting Jewish day school students, that can be applied to your Virginia taxes. With a $500 minimum donation, it's an impactful way to support Jewish education while enjoying significant tax savings.

Act now to secure these benefits and help us reach our funding goal for this school year. $577,356 awarded through 89 Scholarships in 2025

For example, a $10,000 donation could yield over $7,500 in tax savings, making a substantial difference in students' lives and in your tax planning.
