

Richard C. Goodwin —
Josiah DuBois
21st Annual Humanitarian Award

Application 2021

About Josiah DuBois (1912-1983)

- ◆ Josiah DuBois was born in Camden, and was raised in Woodbury, New Jersey. He was an exceptional student who attended the University of Pennsylvania and became a distinguished attorney.
- ◆ During World War II, DuBois served as Assistant General Counsel in the US Treasury Department working with the Foreign Funds Control. This department worked with the US State Department, which was involved in funding for refugee relief.
- ◆ DuBois discovered information about the Nazis' mass murder of the European Jews (the Holocaust). However, the State Department officials were obstructing opportunities to rescue the Jews.
- ◆ DuBois was outraged that messages about the Nazis' "Final Solution" were being ignored. He documented this suppression and brought the evidence to the attention of the Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau Jr.
- ◆ During his investigation of the State Department, DuBois received repeated anonymous threats. Despite this danger, he continued to expose the Department's inaction.
- ◆ Josiah DuBois was a Holocaust hero. He was a whistle-blower who opened the world's eyes to Nazi atrocities.
- ◆ When asked about the motives of his actions, he replied that it was, "just what a human being should do."

DuBois' Mission

As a result of DuBois' action, a rescue agency, called the War Refugee Board (WRB), was created by President Roosevelt. DuBois was appointed its General Counsel. The WRB accomplished the following:

- Sent Raoul Wallenberg, a Swedish diplomat, to Hungary, where he saved 100,000 Jews
- Encouraged Pope John XXIII to rescue Jewish children
- Created a safe haven for 1,000 Jewish refugees at Fort Ontario in Oswego, NY
- In total, the WRB rescued 200,000 lives from the time of its creation in January 1944 through May 1945
- As an attorney during the subsequent post-war Nuremberg Trials, DuBois was a major prosecutor of the chemical giant, I.G. Farben, which was found guilty of exploiting slave labor

The Message

We must not be bystanders and we must care about fellow human beings. We must be active and speak out when people are being persecuted. In honor and in loving memory of this "Righteous Among the Nations," we must strive to be dedicated, compassionate, forthright, courageous, and kind.

Quotes from Previous Recipients

“My grandfather’s life was saved because others decided not to be bystanders even in the most horrific of circumstances. You never know how one small act can save a person or an entire world. In order to heal the world, we must all stop being bystanders. The world must unite and radiate DuBois’ moral principles.”

-Joey Ellis, Haddonfield Memorial High School

“Like DuBois, I refuse to remain silent when silence only contributes to the systematic destruction of an entire group of people... My story is not finished. I still have more to say. I still have a suffocating amount of silence to break.”

-Victoria Kalbacher, Cherry Hill High School West

“Like Mr. DuBois, I do not want to be a bystander to life.”

-Charles Castillo, Seneca High School

“Josiah DuBois helped others because he said it was “just what a human being should do”, and I completely agree with that sentiment. Because of my love of service, I have been encouraging others to join my volunteer efforts.”

-Katelyn Darrow, Pitman High School

“DuBois' work demonstrates that it does not matter that you are only just one person; one person is all that is needed to stand up and advocate for those who cannot speak for themselves.”

-Emily Lichtenstadter, Cherry Hill High School East
