

RUDERMAN SYNAGOGUE INCLUSION PROJECT

LARGE PRINT SIDDURIM

One useful tool for people with difficulty seeing can be large print Siddurim. These professionally laid out volumes contain the same text as your synagogue's preferred Siddur, but they have been expertly enlarged to make them easier to read.

While extremely useful, these larger volumes are not without their challenges, most notably that they are often bigger and heavier than their smaller print counterparts. Some publishers have come up with multiple volume options, which may be a good solution. Having music stands, snack trays, or some other form of platform available for the users of these books is a great idea in case the weight makes it difficult to pray with.

What follows is a list of some of the most popular Siddurim in use in our community, with links of where to purchase a large print edition. Should the Siddur used by your synagogue not be on this list, you may also wish to Google and call the publisher, before determining that a large print version is not available.

- Art Scroll Siddurim and Tehilim \(almost the entire art scroll lineup of Hebrew and Hebrew English Siddurim is available in one volume, large print editions\)
- Mishkan T'filah For Shabbat, Central Conference of American Rabbis \(one volume\)
- Mishkan T'filah For Weekdays and Festivals, Central Conference of American Rabbis \(one volume\)
- Mishkan T'filah For Shabbat, Weekdays, And Festivals, Central Conference of American Rabbis \(two volume set\)
- Mishkan T'filah For Shabbat and Weekdays, Central Conference of American Rabbis \(three volumes\)
This special, even larger print edition of Mishkan T'filah was created with the specific input of people with visual impairments, and is divided into three volumes: the first for Shabbat, the second for weekdays and festivals, and the third for all the supplementary readings normally found in the volume. It does not currently appear to be available to purchase by individual volume.
