As health care professionals and caregivers, it is our responsibility to be educated and remain aware of the Holocaust trauma, and the post-traumatic impact stress can have in providing care.

The resources on this page provide professional caregivers with background and information on how to provide care to Holocaust Survivors at the end of life.

Caring for Holocaust Survivors With Sensitivity at the End of Life

► On-Demand E-Learning Modules

This online training toolkit consists of a course orientation and three modules that can be taken individually. The e-learning provides 3.25 CME/CE credits.

► Multimedia Library

This digital library contains resources about the historical background of the Holocaust and how to provide person-centered, trauma-informed care to Holocaust survivors and their families.

► MJHS Guidebook

This guidebook is for clinicians who have never, or rarely, worked with Holocaust Survivors. It is meant to help provide a deeper understanding of end-of-life issues that may manifest in the Holocaust Survivor patient.

► Grief and Renewal After the Loss of a Holocaust Survivor

Our six-part webinar series addresses how this unique lifelong issue has shaped our lives, and will help you answer: What happens now? How do you reconcile your loss when you have been focused on your loved one for so long? How do you carry out the legacy for your loved one?

About MJHS Health System

MJHS is one of the largest not-for-profit health systems in the region. Our range of health services include home care, hospice and palliative care for adults and children, rehabilitation and nursing care (Isabella & Menorah Center), and the research-based MJHS Institute for Innovation in Palliative Care. We also offer health plans for Medicare and dual-eligible individuals.

As a not-for-profit organization, many of our programs and services are made possible, in part, through support to the MJHS Foundation. For more information on our care services visit mjhs.org.
