KNOXVILLE IEWISH ALLIANCE Building Community Enriching Lives

Knoxville Jewish Alliance Ha'Kol

KJA and UTK Partner to Host Seminar Cult Places in the Bible and the Ancient Near East Thursday, March 5 — 7:30-9:00 pm. Arnstein Jewish Community Center, 6800 Deane Hill Drive

Cult Places in the Bible and the Ancient Near East will focus on the portrayal of religious spaces and places in the Hebrew Bible and ancient Near Eastern texts. In addition to central cultic institutions, Drs. Erin Darby and Raphe Panitz will also discus "illicit," "forbidden," and contested cult places.

Erin Darby, Ph.D., is an assistant professor in UT's Department of Religious Studies. Her research and teaching interests include topics in biblical studies, ancient Near Eastern studies, archaeology, anthropology, art history, Judaic studies, and ritual studies.

Raphe Panitz, Ph.D., has a B.A. in history from New York University, a Master's in library science from the University of Maryland, and a Ph.D. in Biblical and Ancient Near Eastern Studies from the University of Pennsylvania. He is fluent in Hebrew and has taught Hebrew languages and Judaic studies on all levels.

This seminar is part of the Partnership for the Academic Study of Early Judaism annual seminar cycle: "Sacred Space: Then and Now." The seminar is free and open to the public. Light refreshments will be provided. Let us know you're coming via email to kja@jewishknoxville.org or by calling 690-6343.

KJA Annual Campaign Kick-Off Led by 10 Lions of Judah

The Lion of Judah designation was established in Miami in 1972 as a symbol to recognize a new level of commitment set forth by a cadre of doers. These women knew that to shape the future they envisioned, they would have to contribute accordingly. At that time, only 16 women qualified for this level of giving ($5,000 for a woman or $10,000 for a couple). Today, more than 13,000 women declare their commitment to the preservation and growth of the worldwide Jewish community by making such contributions to their annual campaigns.

The 2014 KJA Annual Campaign would like to thank these Lions of Judah for leading its 2014 efforts:

- Nancy Becker
- Barbara Bernstein

- Kay Goodfriend
- Wendv • Goodfriend
- Elise Jacobs Mary Beth Leibowitz
- . Barb Levin
- Natalie Robinson
- Alexandra Rosen
- In memory of • Esther Rosen (endowed gift)
- Kim Rosen

If you would like to join these leaders in building Jewish life in Knoxville and impacting Jewish lives abroad, please contact Jeff Gubitz at 690-6343.

Four Bam! Three Crack! Two Dot! Those magical sounds...tiles clacking, players bonding and laughing, and becoming Mahj Sistas, and the fun sound of someone declaring "MAH JONGG!"

Knoxville women are jumping on the bandwagon and discovering what women of the 1950s recognized as a fun time and a wonderful way to spend an afternoon or evening. Mah Jongg, or as it's playfully referred to – Mahj - gets under your skin and brings women together on porches, in kitchens, living rooms, and sunrooms in community centers, senior centers, houses of worship and people's homes. It's a remarkable game that makes you think, stimulates your senses, and is addictive. With some patience and a few lessons, you can master the intricacies and nuances of the game and join the dozens of women who are signing up to learn this fabulous game.

Join expert teachers, Marian Jay and Robin Brown, at the Arnstein Jewish Community Center, 6800 Deane Hill Drive, for an exciting journey into this timeless game. We have room for eight people per class so be the first to register. To register, contact Marian and Robin at knoxmahj@gmail.com and let them know you'll join us for this class.

Rob Heller: Telling Stories in a Tennessee Coal Town.

Please note that this program is on a Tuesday, not our usual Wednesday.

Rob Heller is a UT Journalism and Electronic Media professor, with a specialty in photojournalism and graphic design. He's in his twenty-ninth year at UT. In 1993, Heller decided that he wanted his advanced students to do a group project on a small town, and chose LaFollette, a former coal-mining town that is a 45-minute drive north of Knoxville. The town's weekly newspaper publisher taught at the university and agreed to Heller's class's producing an eight-page photo section for The LaFollette Press.

What started as a two-day class trip has become a 22-year project in which most of Heller's successive classes have documented the town. The LaFollette photography project was recently featured in the New York Times Lens blog on photography, video, and visual journalism blog. A preview of the project can be seen at http://lens.blogs.nytimes.com/2015/01/06/telling-stories-in-a-tennessee -coal-town/

Program location: Sherrill Hills Retirement Community, 271 Moss Grove Blvd. Knoxville, TN 37922

The luncheon begins at noon and the program begins at 12:45 p.m. Lunch is $8.00. There is no cost for attending the program alone. Transportation is available upon request—please have your ride requests in by Friday, February 6. For more information, please contact Laura Berry at lberry@jewishknoxville.org or by calling (865) 690-6343.

Local Teacher Gains International Insights Through Israeli Trip

In December, AJCC Preschool teacher Alicia Carter traveled to Israel as part of the P2G Southeast Consortium Education Delegation representing Knoxville. She traveled to Jerusalem, Tel Aviv, Akko, and Hadera during her trip where she visited schools and programs to learn about the Israeli education system. "In each city, I visited a different museum featuring varied aspects of Jewish history. I met new friends and made new connections not only in Israel, but also in the southeast region of the U.S. Now that I am back, I cannot wait to use the connections I made and work with other Jewish communities across the southeast region. I have gained so much knowledge and life experience on my trip and all I want to do is share that knowledge and my experience with others in my community," Carter said.

Knoxville is one of nine communities in the P2G Southeast Consortium. This Education Delegation is an ongoing program, with educators traveling on alternate years to Israel. Since Israel hosted this year, Israeli educators will be invited to visit the U.S. on the next delegation.

If you are an educator interested in traveling to Israel through this program or hosting an Israeli educator during a future visit, please contact Deborah Oleshansky at doleshansky@jewishknoxville.org.

Special Shabbat Service

Please join our Knoxville Hadassah chapter on Saturday morning, February 28, 2015 at Heska Amuna Synagogue to celebrate Shabbat Zachor beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Hadassah Shabbat will celebrate Parshat Zachor, which reminds us how evil can be transformed into good, focusing on the victory of Israel over Amalek and of Esther and Vashti over oppression and discrimination.

As an organization of more than 330,000 women across the country, Hadassah will read Parshat Zachor as a reclaiming of Vashti as a of Vashti as a force against discrimination.

From the Rabbi's Desk Heska Amuna Serves!

By Rabbi Alon Ferency

We often think that the Jewish value of tzedakah is just a Hebrew word for charity, but it goes beyond that. Although charity is important, tzedakah is more than simply making a donation to local poor people. The root tzedek implies the significance of bringing righteousness to the world. Deuteronomy declares: "Tzedek, tzedek tirdof – righteousness, pursue righteousness!" The pursuit of tzedek also requires hesed – acts of loving-kindness.

To understand the importance of hesed, consider this: God loves us more than we deserve. That is a measure of God's hesed – God's grace. In imitatio Dei, reflection of our Creator, we show hesed to God's creations. This is accomplished by serving them. In this world, we manifest God's love through our own acts of loving-kindness and community service (Gemilut Hasadim).

In the Talmud, "our Rabbis taught, 'In three respects, acts of hesed are superior to charity: charity can be done only with one's money, but acts of hesed can be done with one's person and one's money. Charity can be given only to the poor, acts of hesed both to the rich and the poor. Charity can be given to the living only, acts of hesed can be done both to the living and to the dead.""

Turns out, many of our community members are already engaged in acts of hesed. Whether serving on a local board, volunteering at the Arnstein Jewish Community Center, teaching children, or feeding the hungry, our small Jewish community makes a big impact in Greater Knoxville and beyond. We would like to recognize, honor, and celebrate the contributions you are already making, and encourage others to join in and pick up the mantle of service -hesed.

I hope you'll join us for our Celebrate Service Shabbat, February 21. Then, we will appreciate all that we do, and all the work still to be done!

From the President

By Jenifer Ohriner

On November 1, 1987, the Ohriner family moved from Hamden, Connecticut, and arrived in Knoxville, Tennessee. My first phone call was to Heska Amuna Synagogue to enroll our sons in the Religious School. Our assumption was that our sons would be able to make some friends in their new world. Little did we know that Heska Amuna would become one of the most important elements of our lives in Knoxville for over 27 years and counting.

Our commute began in earnest when we purchased a house in Farragut. We began driving 18 miles each way to religious school Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Sundays. Soon we added the Wednesday drive for Prozdor and Shabbat, of course, while preparing for three b'nei mitzvahs. Add in the monthly Junior Choir on Friday, and we were now traveling 40 miles a day, six days a week, to provide a Jewish education for our children. Of course, as people began to realize we would be available, the requests for volunteers came more and more frequently, and we suddenly found ourselves with a family we could relate to and celebrate with. After all, our relatives were in California and Missouri, both too far away to see frequently. The boys even had "fake" grandparents as needed for Grandparent's Day at school.

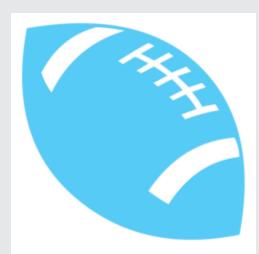

Heska Amuna became our anchor in the buckle of the bible belt, especially as I began working as a teacher in the Knox County schools and our sons worked their way through the public school system. We found ourselves spending more and more time with our friends at the synagogue where we had common grounds for complaints and arguments over what was best for us, for our kids, for our world. Evan and I served in almost every volunteer position available at Heska Amuna. Evan was a religious school teacher, Financial Vice President, President, and Chairman of the Board, while I taught Preschool for three years, served on the Ed Committee, chaired the Ed Committee, served as Programming Vice Chair, Education Vice Chair, and President.

It wasn't until my father passed away in 2002 that we were able to learn just how important Heska Amuna would be to our family. In 2004 my mother, Rose, moved to Knoxville to live with us. We didn't know at the time that we would lose her quickly to Alzheimer's. Over the five years she lived with us, we found that our Heska Amuna family was always available. Our friends visited with Rose while Evan and I were at work. They watched over Rose when we traveled to visit our children and grandchildren. Our friends made sure Rose ate well, stayed active as long as possible, and attended Friendshipper gatherings. When Rose was moved from facility to facility to find the best care for her, our friends continued to visit her regularly. As we lost my parents and Evan's father, Marvin, our Heska Amuna relatives made sure we had 16 shiva minyans in our home, complete with food each time someone died. The community was there while Jenifer cried through those first years without Rose, including the unveiling on a bitter, cold January morning.

As I travel through Heska Amuna, I see the evidence of the huge impact Heska Amuna has had on our family. The plaques on the Jerusalem Wall show the establishment of the Rosenthal Fund for environment concerns in memory of my father and our appreciation for Heska Amuna's Education program. The plaques on the way into the small chapel honor the bar mitzvahs of Philip and Mitchell. The Yahrzeit plaques in the main sanctuary honor our parents and keep them in our memories.

At some point in the future, Evan and I will no longer be coming to Heska Amuna. Already, our sons rarely visit home, and we are spending more and more of the Jewish holidays with our grandchildren. However, we want to help make sure that Heska Amuna will exist for future generations of families who find themselves in Knoxville, starting new families, or looking for friends to share lives. We will be creating two IRAs with Heska Amuna Synagogue as the beneficiary. After we have both passed away, our legacy will help.

Heska Amuna Religious School News

By Betty Golub, Youth and Family Programming Director, morahbetty@heskaamuna.org

Children are just "naturally" more open than adults to the wonders of creation, and not just because they are that much closer to the ground! They truly take the time to smell the flowers, watch the ants and examine a rock. The newness of their experiences makes it seem as if the world itself was just made, and they respond with interest and excitement. We can provide many "tree happenings" that can play on this interest in the natural world to make Tu B'Shevat meaningful for young family members. Below are just a few suggestions – your fertile imaginations can come up with many more!

- Sit near a window with a view of trees and ask your child what he or she sees. Point out the trees if they are not mentioned. Have your child look at the branches and talk about what they look like (straight, bent, tangled, etc.). Try to help your child see beauty in the bare branches and the tree shapes you can see when no leaves are in the way. Then imagine together what grows on tree leaves, flowers, fruits and then look at the winter trees again. We can enjoy the trees in any season.
- Go on a "tree-sure" hunt. Walk through the house with your child and look for things that come from trees. She or he may be surprised to learn that wood and papers are tree products. The chair she or he sits in, the pencil used for drawing, are all products of trees. Even the books we read were once growing in a forest! Have lots of fruit to discover and talk about as your exploring adventure ends in the kitchen or dining room fruit bowl.
- Have your own Tu B'Shevat seder! Go together to the grocery store and find all the fruits you can that come from trees. You can also buy nuts, if there are no allergies!
- Make a great table decoration! You can also take a trip down the cookie aisle and get treats that have nuts (maybe) and fruits baked into them. Figure out a way to eat them using the ideas of the Kabbalists grouping together those with peels that need to be removed, those with pits, and those that can be eaten entirely. Instead, you may wish to put together those which grow in Israel, such as oranges, grapefruits, pomegranates, figs, grapes, olives and dates. Rather than reading Biblical verse, you may wish to show pictures of the trees growing in Israel. You might want to end the eating part of your seder with the cookie treats, talking about what fruits and nuts they contain. Finally, a good tree story makes a good finish!
- No Tu B'Shevat is complete without the purchase of at least one tree in Israel. The Land has been severely deforested after centuries of misuse, and is in critical need of your help. Participate with your child in the great Mitzvah of tree-planting. In order to make this experience more concrete for your youngster, you may wish to plant a tree in your own year at the same time or at least as soon as you can actually dig a hole and successfully transplant a sapling!
- Use Tu B'Shevat as a time to renew your commitment to conservation and protection of the earth. Have a family talk about using resources carefully, such as not leaving the water running unnecessarily (plants may need that water) or not using paper plates very often (because they use up trees). Again, on a more concrete level, you and your child can take a trip around your yard to see how the plants and the soil are doing. Some trees and plants may need more mulch, which your child can help you put out.

Think together about how trees help us on holidays through the year, not just on TuB'Shevat. On Rosh Hashanah, we eat something that grew on a tree. On Sukkot, we cover the Sukkah with sekhakh, we hang fruits from the Sukkah, use the etrog and wave the lulav - parts of trees - in the air! On Hanukkah, many of us eat latkes with applesauce. Purim brings us hamentaschen filled with cherries, apples and plums. On Pesach, we eat haroset made from apples and nuts from our friends, the trees. On Shavuot, we talk about the Torah, the TREE of Life, something we can learn about and hang onto forever!

Learners' Minyan: Understanding How and Why We Pray

By Rabbi Mathew D. Michaels, M.A.H.L., D.D.

A meditation in the Gates of Prayer begins: "If anyone comes to public worship and leaves with the feeling that he has gotten nothing out of it, let him ask: Did I bring anything to it? Most often the answer to the second will supply the cause of the first."

A few times a year, our Ritual & Worship Committee sponsors a Shabbat morning Learners' Minyan and luncheon. It is an opportunity for prayer, study, and conversation. A warm, intimate setting is created that allows each participant to better understand the "how's and why's" of Jewish worship. Those who have participated in the past can attest to its impact. So often we come into the sanctuary expecting to be "wowed" by the rabbi, the music, the liturgy. Rarely is this expectation fulfilled, mainly because we sit passively, waiting to be moved by the "Spirit." To paraphrase Abraham Joshua Heschel: we wait for (expect) the Spirit to move us, but perhaps we might consider what (if anything) we do to move the Spirit.

From my perspective, when we enter into prayer, we enter into relationship! I believe that, when it comes to prayer, a paradigm shift is needed. The traditional view is seeing congregants in the passive role of "listener/audience," the prayer book as the "script" from which we must not deviate, the "rabbi/leader" as prompter, and God as the main player/star headliner/actor. Instead, I suggest a shift in how we view these roles. Perhaps we might consider that congregants are the "main players," the prayer book is merely a "prompter" for our heads and hearts, the rabbi/leader is simply a facilitator, and that God is the "listener" to the words of our mouths and the meditations of our hearts.

I truly believe that if we walk into the sanctuary with this perspective, we will walk out having had a truly spiritual experience. The Talmud asks: Where do you find God? Wherever YOU let God in!

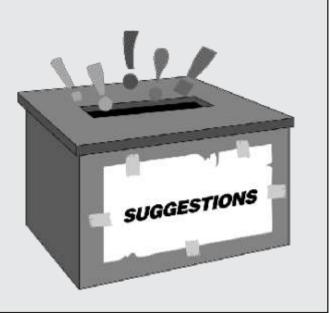

Join me on Shabbat morning, February 21 at 10:30 a.m. for our next Learners' Minyan. Come learn, explore, "move the Spirit," deepen your understanding of prayer, and strengthen your relationship with God.

My Way In

By Liz Gassel, TBE President

The Sisterhood of Temple Beth El was 'my way in' to becoming an active member of life at this congregation. As a newcomer, how do you step in to a totally new and foreign land, a new Temple, a new culture? Sisterhood is where I found that warm embrace and that comfortable avenue into Temple life.

Our first Rosh Hashanah here, 1999, Mike and I came in to the sanctuary and fortuitously seated ourselves next to the old guard of Sisterhood, Goldie and Sylvia. We would never forget that mix of Silver and Gold, so warm, encouraging and friendly. Soon after, I joined and took part in the organization.

Over time, I got to know more members. Familiarity and ease came through the involvement in projects and working with others to plan them and carry them to success. Bowl - ing for Hunger required much planning and two Sunday's work with the Religious School staff and students and their parents as well as Sisterhood members. During the related dinner and chili cook – off and fundraising for Mazon, yet more faces and names of the congregation connected together.

The Hamentaschen Bake called for a large crew in our Temple kitchen. So what if the hamentaschen corners were not quite sharp and the filling ran out here and there! It was a collective project together with other women. In the doing we began long standing friendships. On another occasion, the meeting topic was riveting. It involved a presentation by our women members who hailed from other countries – England, Russia, South Africa, Germany, Canada, to name a few. Hearing their stories of Jewish life and tasting some typical foods allowed for another dimension of closeness and bonding.

Enough of the reminiscing already! Suffice it to say that through my work and roles in Sisterhood from programming through presidency, together with the work of many others, through highly successful projects like 'Bowl'-ing for Hunger (now called 'Hunger Shabbat') to projects that never got off the ground, like a Sisterhood idea to participate in creating an 'artist-designed' wedding chupah, I came to be a collaborator in Temple Beth El life. Here is what the Reform movement is talking about right now, what is au courant, the focus on relationships, impact and meaning. Not a new idea, really, but a very important goal of ours. To have our congregants inspired and involved in a meaningful community is an ultimate objective for all of us. All of our work here should focus on that goal.

The Temple landscape is an ever-changing one with people coming for the first time, leaving, maybe returning, sometimes involved, other times not, sometimes gone forever. As a working component of the Temple Beth El community, Sisterhood provides a constant that all women of our congregation can embrace and, like my experience, reciprocal goals both for the organization and for its members can be attained. Why not new goals, radically different, as we go forward to make an organization that inspires and engages the next generation of women? An active membership of varying ages and interests must continue to provide a place for many to integrate into the life of today at Temple Beth El.

Just two years before the establishment of our Sisterhood, Women of Reform Judaism formed. An affiliate of the URJ and an integral part of the Reform Movement, WRJ is the organizational umbrella for hundreds of affiliated sisterhoods with tens of thousands of members around the globe.

As a WRJ member, our Sisterhood embraces their approach and vision:

WRJ strengthens the voice of women and empowers them to create caring communities, cultivate personal and spiritual growth, and promote Reform Jewish values to ensure a vibrant future.

WRJ has an illustrious and extensive history being at the forefront of social action and change, advancing the role of women in Jewish life, and supporting the growth of Reform institutions around the world.

Each year our Sisterhood creates a Shabbat service and our members participate. This year, on Friday, February 20, at 7:30 p.m., that service will commemorate '100 Years of Sisterhood at Temple Beth El'. Please attend and support this tribute to our Temple Women. Consider becoming a member, if you are not. As with the Temple in general, we are looking for you, the next generation, to come forward and to make Sisterhood yours.

Chanukah Latke Celebration Lots of Fun

By Amy Rosenberg

What do 800 latkes, 45 pounds of delicious smoked brisket, 9 challahs, 7 quarts of applesauce, 3 quarts of sour cream, 300 cookies and 7 gallons of tea add up to? The answer is 131 smiling faces at the recent Temple Beth El Chanukah Latke Celebration, held on Friday, December 19 at Temple Beth El.

Fellow Jews from throughout East Tennessee and from other congregations were on hand to celebrate the Festival of Lights. The spirit of holiday and community was simply contagious.

The most well attended family event of the year, the TBE Chanukah celebration was the culmination of a great volunteer effort by many people but a special thanks to Phyllis and Ken Hirsh, Sylvia and Irv Witcoff, Mark and Lucy Barkan, Sandy Parker, Steve Beber, Hal and Jake Rosenberg, and Tina (I apologize if I inadvertently left someone out). Along with the lighting of the many beautiful menorahs, there was a beautiful family service after dinner led by Rabbi Matt Michaels.

We are already planning for an even bigger and better Chanukah Latke Celebration next year!

It's Time for Sisterhood at Temple Beth El

By Karen Smith and Kathy Young, Sisterhood Co-Presidents

Thanks to Sisterhood Vice President for Programs Heather Laing for Sisterhood's January 11 program with Marilyn Kallet and to Marilyn Kallet for sharing her beautiful poetry from The Love that Moves Me: Love Poetry from a Jewish Perspective.

On February 20 at 7:30 p.m., TBE Sisterhood will celebrate "100 Years of Sisterhood at Temple Beth El" with a special Sisterhood Shabbat service. Chairs Meredith Jaffe, Susan Baker, and Karen Smith have written a service to be led by Sisterhood members. A Sisterhood Oneg will follow the service.

During the Purim Carnival on Sunday, March 1, Sisterhood will sell hamantaschen. We will not offer pre-orders so arrive early to get your favorites. Hamantaschen will sell for $1.00 each, 6 for $5.00, or 12 for $10.00

Good food, friends, and a contribution to Random Acts of Flowers—what could be more appealing. Sisterhood has planned a special Shabbat evening for Friday, March 27. Shabbat for Random Acts of Flowers will begin at 6:00 p.m. with a pasta dinner followed by a social justice Shabbat service led by religious school students.

Larsen Jay, founder of Random Acts of Flowers, will be our guest speaker. He will tell us about the work of Random Acts of Flowers, a non-profit charity improving mental health through the power of giving flowers.

Volunteers collect flowers from weddings, special events, houses of worship, and grocery stores to recycle and repurpose them into beautiful bouquets for delivery to patients in area hospitals, nursing homes, and hospice centers. Most Monday mornings, a volunteer will collect the Temple's pulpit flowers from Friday Shabbat services. These flowers are purchased by Sisterhood's Beiler Floral Fund. For the dinner, Sisterhood needs donations of pasta dishes to feed at least 8 people. The dishes can be either meat or dairy but not a combination. The dish can be a cold or hot pasta, and we'll warm as needed.

The cost for dinner is $8.00 for adults, $5.00 for children under 12 years. There is a $25.00 cap for families (parents and children.) Sisterhood will provide the drinks, bread, and salad.

We will also collect vases of all sizes, shapes, and colors to donate to Random Acts of Flowers. And, as always, our canned food drive continues to support Marty's Mission.

RSVP to Lesley Krakauer (691-3208 or always.brit@gmail.com) OR Karen Smith (691-3231 or briankarens@comcast.net) to bring a pasta dish or make a reservation for dinner. Sign up sheets will also be available on the Sisterhood Board at Temple.

100 Years of Sisterhood at Temple Beth El - 1915-2915

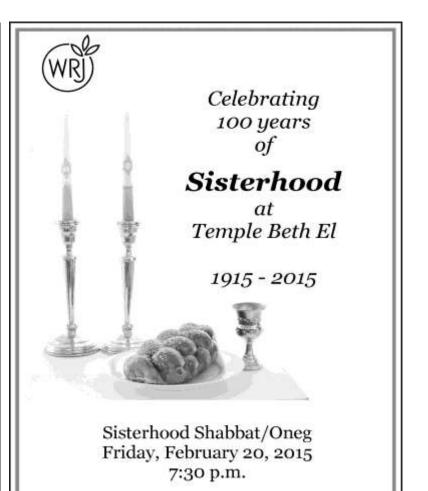

By Karen Smith, Sisterhood Co-President

On February 22, 1952 in observance of Brotherhood Week, Temple Beth El Sisterhood hosted an Interfaith Tea honoring the teachers of Knoxville and Knox County. The tea began at 4:00 p.m. and was held at Temple Beth El, then located on Vine Avenue. Exhibits of symbols and ceremonials were on tables and explanations were given of the Jewish holidays. One of the typical prayers associated with each holiday was recited, and a traditional hymn for that holiday was sung by the Temple choir.

Invitations were extended to each school principal and to two representatives from each school who were selected by the principal; to the Supervisors; and the Superintendents. "In the interest of better understanding and better human relationships among people of all faiths, the Sisterhood Interfaith Tea will provide an opportunity to see and hear authoritatively some of the beauty and simplicity of the religion of Judaism, in a Cavalcade of Holidays," so read the notice sent by the Office of the Superintendent for Knoxville City Schools.

Additional information tells us that about 200 Knoxville and Knox County teachers attended the Interfaith Tea. The tea was chaired by Emilie Strasburger who was at that time a Vice President of the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods (NFTS.)

Link Kroger Cards to TBE and Help Us Raise Funds

It's a New Year. Please be sure your Kroger card is linked to Temple Beth El for Community Rewards. Kroger donates a percentages of your purchases quarterly. This simple service is an important and helpful fund rasing method that every member can participate to increase our income from the Kroger program.

The sale of grocery cards was an important fundraiser for Temple Beth El for many years. Now we just link our Kroger Plus Card to Temple Beth El and earnings automatically accrue for us quarterly – any time we shop in any of the Kroger family stores - anywhere in the country! Your grown kids may still be using your Kroger Plus ID for discounts (who wouldn't!) and can add to our fundraiser, too. Or, you may be traveling and can add bucks to our fundraiser while you are away! Other Kroger family stores around the country now are QFC, Smith's, Fry's, Dillons, Ralphs, and Fred Myer.

The 24 households enrolled helped us earn $326.89 last quarter. A special thanks to all of you that supported this fundraiser for so many years! Please be a part of it now in 2015!

ENROLL today. Follow These Four Simple Steps

- 1. www.krogercommunityrewards.com
- 2. Sign in if you already have an account (use your account for digital coupons, view gas points, etc.)
- 3. If not, create an account. You'll need the number off your Kroger Plus Card.
- 4. Search for Temple Beth El
- 5. ENROLL

Please note that you must re-enroll each year so even if you think you are participating, please double check by following the above steps.

All TBE Members are Temple Membership Committee Members!

By Janice Pollock, Membership Chair

On Friday, February 6[,] the Temple Beth El Membership Committee will host a wine and cheese reception at 6:30 p.m. This will take place prior to the KJA Shabbat which is always a great opportunity to learn more about KJA's important role in our community.

The Membership Committee has been capably led by Amy Rosenberg for many years. Her contributions to this and so many other endeavors have been very meaningful for Temple Beth El. I look forward to continuing the efforts on behalf of our Temple to achieve a number of goals, including:

- Simplify the process for prospective members this includes relevant materials, contact names and general roadmap to learn about becoming a Temple Beth El member
- Assist with specific questions that a prospective member might have depending on their needs and expectations. Questions may vary a great deal whether someone is new to the area or has been in Knoxville but unaffiliated. Different members of Temple leadership and congregation can play an important role
- Social opportunities work in conjunction with social committee to ensure new and prospective members are aware of the wonderful and wide range of activities available at Temple Beth El. The use of web site and email blasts can greatly assist with this process
- New Member Mentor Program The purpose of this is to pair a new member with an individual or family that has been a member of Temple Beth El for some time. Especially for families new to the area, the opportunity can exist for informal but helpful assistance with Temple or Knoxville related questions

The current and long-term health of our congregation can be aided in many ways by a successful membership committee. We all know relatively new members who have capably stepped up and offered their assistance in many aspects of Temple life. Every individual or family brings their own Jewish experiences to our Temple and for that we are all better off. The recent growth in members is a very positive sign and something to build on. EVERYONE at Temple Beth El is on the Membership Committee. We were all new once and everyone can play a role in helping Temple Beth El now and in the future. If you meet someone in the community who is unaffiliated or otherwise interested in joinin, g please pass along any names to me or Tina in the office (secretary@tbeknox.org)

On behalf of the committee we would like to thank Rabbi Matt Michaels for his tireless efforts meeting with prospective members and sharing his vision of Temple Beth El. Also, since many families happen to stop by during religious school we appreciate Norma James for her efforts and support to grow Temple Beth El.

Friday, February 6 6:30 p.m.

The Temple Beth El Membership Committee will host a wine and cheese reception

This will take place prior to KJA Shabbat services.

All existing, new, and prospective members are invited to attend!

We look forward to seeing you at Temple Beth El.

If you have any questions, please contact Janice Pollock at (865) 670-6611 or Tina at secretary@tbeknox.org

Tikkun Olam

(Hebrew: הקון עולם is a Hebrew phrase that means "repairing the world" (or "healing the world") which suggests humanity's shared responsibility to heal, repair, and transform the world.

In Judaism, the concept of tikkun olam originated in the early rabbinic period. The concept was given new meanings in the kabbalah of the medieval period and has come to possess further connotations in modern Judaism. Source: Wikipedia)

Knoxville Jewish Community Family of Funds

A Supporting Organization of the Knoxville Jewish Alliance and the East Tennessee Foundation to preserve and strengthen the Jewish Community of Knoxville

Oh, the Places You'll Go!

By Scott B. Hahn, Esq., KJCFF President

I recently had the privilege of attending the BBYO Cotton States regional convention, held here in Knoxville. It was very rewarding to see how well the region and our local AZA and BBG chapters are doing some 35 years after I attended my last BBYO convention. It also gave me a chance to reflect on what a major component of my Jewish life conventions have been in my life and how important they are to our community in general.

Attending Jewish conferences are vital to a community on so many different levels. Living in a small Jewish community, you can learn about what your peers are doing in other cities. You can get ideas for programs, hear interesting speakers, and visit cities you may not visit otherwise. Probably the most important aspect of going to a conference is that you can make friends from other communities and bond with your fellow travelers. A lot of important business and longterm planning can take place at these events that can help shape your organization for years to come. Finally, conferences are fun. I never had a bad time at any of the events I attended.

Unfortunately, fewer and fewer people in our community attend these conferences. I realize that there are several factors that have contributed to the decline in participation, the two biggest being time and money. Currently, I am aware of only one fund at the KJCFF that helps to subsidize travel for conferences and that is the Ted and Dolly Reback Knoxville Youth Fund, which helps defray travel expenses for local kids to attend BBYO conferences and conventions. For those of you who don't know, Ted was a longtime advisor and mentor to Winick AZA. Ted dedicated his time to help counsel many Jewish males here in town, this author included. The fund was started by the Reback children and some Winick alumni in Ted and his wife's Dolly's honor.

There is no question that a major component of leadership development is conference participation. I know many cities have substantial funds dedicated to subsidizing participants' travel expenses. In my opinion, such a fund would be a major benefit to organized Jewish life in Knoxville, for all the reasons listed above and many more. We believe in the importance of sending our youth to such programs. We also need to focus on the benefit such programs could have on our adult leadership.

Chanukah Happenings and More.....

We closed out a great 2014 with a joyous Chanukah celebration. Sisterhood's gift shop supplied us with new candles, wrapping paper and gifts. Becky Charles led the families in an afternoon of Chanukah activities including stories, cookie decorating, Israeli dancing and designing our own menorahs.

JCOR's synagogue party was a blast, with dancing and magic shows. This year we thought beyond the potato and added new latke flavors of carrot, zucchini, and apple. Join us as we continue to grow and celebrate our heritage in 2015.

On behalf of the Jewish Congregation of Oak Ridge Sisterhood, we wish to express our deep appreciation to the friends and members who helped with our annual Chanukah sale: Melissa Sturm, Dr. Gilya Schmidt, Peggy Laxton, Brenda and Sig Mosko, Sam and Nona Poole, Meir Niad, Charlie Schwartz, Hilary Shreter Bhonda Sternfels Bruce To Shreter, Rhonda Sternfels, Bruce Tomkins, Rita Hoenbrink, Alice Good, Rabbi Rashkovsky, Jim Bogard, and Moshe Yair. Todah Rabah to our customers and supporters.

Director Sam Garbarski explores the complexities of Jewish identity in contemporary Belgium in this uplifting tale about family relationships, romance, religion and interfaith marriage. The Rashevski clan's secular matriarch, Rosa -- who puts more trust in the tango's curative powers than in God -- seems to be the glue holding the family together. When she dies, her baffled brood strives to find meaning within their religious and ethnic heritage.

Study Session with Rabbi Rashkovsky (after the Shabbat Morning Services) A German Jewish philosopher Moses Mendelssohn (1729 – 1786)

is viewed by many historians as the most important figure in early modern Jewish history. He was the first Jew to bring secular culture to those living an Orthodox Jewish life. One of Mendelssohn's most famous works was "Jerusalem" (1783), which discussed the position of Jews and their religion in a Gentile world and was described by the great German philosopher Immanuel Kant as "an irrefutable book." Mendelssohn is considered the father of the Jewish Enlightenment.

CHABAD OF KNOXVILLE Jewish. Done Joyfully!

ב"ה Ever Played Dreidel-Hold-Em?

Chabad of Knoxville's Loxville Club presents a Belgian Chanukah party!

We came together at the home of Rabbi Aryeh and Mushky Wilhelm and enjoyed a lovely spread of Belgian waffle burgers topped with caramelized onions and sweet potato chips, some fresh salad, and a waffle bar, complemented by Belgian beer.

The program began with a Havdalah ceremony; in which we lit candles from the candle factory in Tzfat and an etrog from Sukkot.

We then lit the menorah and sang Chanukah songs, and Rabbi Aryeh shared some warm words.

Who needs Vegas when you can do Kosher gambling in K-town? We gambled Chanukah-style with a grand game of Dreidel - Hold-em using chocolate gelt ;) We played well into the night and had a blast!

To learn about upcoming Loxville events, please contact rabbiaryeh@chabadknoxville.org

Loxsville guests enjoyed a Belgiumthemed Chanukah party, where guests elebrated by lighting candles, enjoying good food and time spent with friends, and playing games.

Community Invited to Join Knoxville Hadassah in Shabbat Celebration

Please join our Knoxville Hadassah chapter on Saturday morning, February 28, 2015 at Heska Amuna Synagogue to celebrate Shabbat Zachor beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Hadassah Shabbat will celebrate Parshat Zachor, which reminds us how evil can be transformed into good, focusing on the victory of Israel over Amalek and of Esther and Vashti over oppression and discrimination.

As an organization of over 330,000 women across the country, Hadassah will read Parshat Zachor as a reclaiming of Vashti as a force against discrimination.

Hadassah Book Club News

By Peggy Littmann, plittmann@comcast.net

Our February book selection is The Signature of All Things by Elizabeth Gilbert. We will meet at 7:30 p.m. at Barnes and Noble on Kingston Pike in the coffee shop area. All Jewish women and friends are welcome. The Hadassah tab at www.jewishknoxville.org/adults will always have up-to-date information in case of changes.

Book Review: The Signature of All Things tells the story of Alma Whittaker, "born with the century" in 1800, in the midst of a Philadelphia winter. Her father, Henry, is a self-made titan: one of the three richest men in the Western Hemisphere, with a fortune built on a thriving import-export business dealing in exotic plants.

Growing up surrounded by her family's expansive estate, Alma becomes fascinated by botany and shows herself to have a shrewd business mind. She devours books and has fervid erotic imaginings but no appropriate suitor. Her adopted sister, Prudence, is the beautiful one who attracts many admiring male gazes, but she is difficult to know: an icy, self-contained girl who holds intimacy at bay.

Over the course of 500 pages, Gilbert creates a bejeweled, dazzling novel that takes the reader all the way from the greenhouses of 18th-century Kew Gardens to the rugged beauty of Tahiti. The result is a book that is epic in scope but human in resonance.

At the same time, The Signature of All Things brings to the fore all those forgotten women of science, whose trailblazing work was swallowed up by more famous men. But it also asks us to consider whether a life lived in the shadows, comprising of a million, small, unnoticed actions, is worth any less than a life of big gestures and public recognition.

Stanford Eisenberg Knoxville Jewish Day School

A New Footprint for KJDS, Students

For some of us in the Knoxville Jewish community, this winter break was an opportunity to volunteer at the Knoxville Jewish Day School in an innovative renovation project. The school has changed its footprint to better meet the student-centered philosophy of the school. Dozens of volunteers and workers came out to tear apart, shlep, reconstruct, paint, and beautify the new rooms. The dust was flying!

The new space will better accommodate the KJDS' core goals of individual and collaborative learning, as well as varied learning styles. KJDS is part of a movement in schools across the U.S. to break away from the industrial model of factory schooling, with long hallways and boxed classrooms. Instead, the spaces between the classrooms are turned into additional learning environments for assorted groups of students, teachers and community members to learn from each other in different ways.

"We have learned that the way school buildings are designed affects the way we teach. So we want to be more intentional about that," says Head of School Miriam Esther. "We want our school to be a place where students can learn from each other, and on their own, as much as from their teachers."

At the heart of innovative school design is the understanding that the world has changed and the way we learn in school needs to reflect that. Modern schools must include learning objectives that prepare students for collaboration in the work force, technological literacy, and digital citizenship with an emphasis on collective problem solving for a safe, ethical and just world. The generous volunteers who helped with the renovation seem to understand that. As Knoxville Jewish community member Avi Udi said, "It's a responsibility to contribute to the school. We need our children to grow up to help us solve the problems of the world."

A Special Thanks....

A special thank you to a devoted group of KJDS families, board members and community members led by Frank Floyd who worked hard over winter break to give us our beautiful new learning space.

Congratulations to our KJDS RAMS on a successful STEAM Out Hunger project. Our school food drive, the AMSE food drive while the structure was standing, plus all the cans from the structure itself weighed in at 2,032 pounds!

Examples of Interdisciplinary Learning at KJDS

Real life learning makes learning become alive, meaningful and fun. Interdisciplinary learning also known as cross-curricular learning is seen as a way to support goals such as transfer of learning, teaching students to think and reason, and providing a curriculum more relevant to students. This form of learning helps students see the connections between the different disciplines and apply their knowledge and skills to their studies.

K-1 "What's Around Me" Unit

As a wrap up to their "What's Around Me" unit Kindergarten and First Grade students wrote an informative piece of writing about magnets. Their knowledge of magnets and skills magnets. Their knowledge of magnets and skill they learned about non-fiction writing was evident in their culminating project.

Identifying the Main Idea: What is the story mostly about? To practice this important reading skill, students worked in groups to find the main idea within brown bags. Inside each bag were sentences and pictures. For example, one bag had pictures of planets, a telescope, and an astronaut. The sentences in this bag read:

1. Jill wants to be an astronaut when she grows up. 2. She memorized the names of the planets up. 2. She memorized the names of the planets. 3. She reads books about the sun. The group worked together and shared with the class that the main idea was that Jill loves outer space. This activity helped the students find the main idea in a simple way and helped build their confidence as readers. After this group activity, students listened to a story, then created their own main idea bag based on the book. Students drew pictures and wrote sentences that described the story's main idea.

Marshmallow Fun: Kindergarten students used mini marshmallows and toothpicks to build plane shapes. This activity helped the kinders review the characteristics of plane shapes including the number of corners and sides as well as gave them a chance to work through the Engineering Design process. First graders used jumbo and mini marshmallows as a non-standard unit of measurement. Making predictions and working successfully with team members students checked their predictions with their measurements.

Exploring what's around us we studied the stages of matter, students were given an ice melting challenge! Each student received an ice cube in a small plastic bag. Only minimal directions were given - get your ice cube to melt as fast as you can and don't open or break the plastic bag. A reak the plastic bag. A timer was set for 10 minutes and students were off to complete the challenge. Some students rubbed their ice on the carpet or in their tshirt. Some placed the bag of ice in what they thought were "hot places" such as inside a box or under a box. Each student was on a mission to get their ice cube to melt. When the timer went off, students gathered at the carpet to share their results. Two students were able to get their ice to completely melt. They shared their strategies for getting the ice to melt quickly. Amos Tyler said that he swung his bag round and round and the ice got hotter and hotter. He also rubbed his ice on the carpet and used the heat from his hands to melt it. Cora Grabel shared that she used her shirt to rub the ice and make the ice melt. At the end of the challenge, the students concluded that you must have heat to make objects melt.

2-3 "Experiencing My World" Unit

In November and December our unit theme was "Experience my World". We did this by learning all about our country's government, favorite authors, crafting and writing about our own opinions and investigating during Genius Hour in the 2-3 class.

We began by reading The Butter Battle Book by Dr. Seuss and digging deeper into how a seemingly simple Seuss story represents a bigger picture of society and governments. The student were given opportunities to write their opinion on ways to solve disagreements, build non-violent "weapons" out of craft materials, and even write a speech from the point of view of a leader to unite those who do not get along. The students then read an autobiography on Dr. Seuss to find out more about him and how he shared his world views through stories and cartoons.

Students read nonfiction selections to better understand the U.S. Constitution and what it meant for the betterment of the United States following the writing of the Declaration of Independence. We dissected each piece of the Preamble to see how these fundamental principles guide our country still today.

Reading various books and watching multiple videos on government, the students were able to compile their understanding into a graphic organizer booklet to explain each branch of government and its role.

To wrap up the unit, each reading group read a fiction chapter book to see the facts of government play out in an entertaining and humorous way. They read The Kid Who Ran for President" and Marvin Redpost: Class President and looked for facts the author incorporated about presidential duties. The students who read "Marvin Redpost" even saw how citizenship plays a role in being responsible and aiding in the unity of government.

This unit was such a fun way to weave real-life governmental issues and fictional stories too through reading, writing, and even art. The students used their time in art class to create Seuss-inspired artwork. After the topics of government were introduced and discussed, the students also had a chance to investigate their own political questions in Genius Hour. Our 2-3 class investigated topics from the different presidents to why we pay taxes. Our young citizens at KJDS are bound to be knowledgeable, curious, and proactive members of our society one day soon!

4-5 Hebrew Chanukah Unit

We had fun opportunities to integrate many different disciplines into our Chanukah unit. Understanding the backdrop of the Chanukah story had us looking at maps, learning about the Hellenist culture's beliefs and practices, using our Hebrew to sequence the Chanukah Story and of course, the music that goes along with our Chanukah unit had us singing and dancing.

We then dug deeper by choosing activities from a choice board to study specific aspects and to create "Chaikus – Chanukah Haikus, stop-motion animations recapping the Chanukah stories and Chatter pix videos where students told how they would have felt or acted had they been Yehuda Maccabee. All of this in HEBREW! As a culmination of the Unit, we read Hebrew books about Dina and Dan who prepared Chanukah surprises for their families. After creating posters of all the ingredients they used and instructions in Hebrew, filling in a Venn diagram in Hebrew comparing the stories, we tried our hands at frying our own Sufganiyot – (Donuts) .Thank you Dana Maman for making that happen.
