Women’s Philanthropy chooses happiness

“Happiness is a choice” was the message for Federation’s Lion of Judah, Pomegranate, and Pearl societies women at Federation’s April women’s philanthropy event. We were thrilled to welcome speaker Dr. Deitra Hickey, owner of Serenity Health & Wellness Center. Incorporating audience participation, Hickey focused on techniques for finding peace and contentment through eliminating negativity and finding more happiness and gratitude in our lives. Look for more women’s program opportunities throughout the year. For more information regarding women’s philanthropy and giving opportunities through the Annual Campaign, please contact Campaign Director Wendy Goldstein at 419-724-0360 or wendy@jewishtoledo.org.
Impressions from a Visit to the Physician Assistants Program in Toledo, Ohio (17-23/1/2019)

Our delegation from the Galilee Medical Center visited Toledo, Ohio with the aim of becoming acquainted with the work of physician assistants in America whose professional role is well established and significant and, at the same time, to reinforce our connection to the local Jewish community. Immediately, we were moved by the warm welcome that awaited us and the efforts made to make us feel at home and an integral part of the Jewish community.

The staff that we met at the Toledo Medical Center included physicians, nurses, physician assistants, nurse practitioners and residents in emergency medicine. During our stay, we witnessed firsthand the differences between the definition of professional roles, delegation of responsibilities and work protocols in the United States in comparison to ours here in Israel.

The responsibility and autonomy granted to physician assistants in the United States is very similar to that granted to full-fledged physicians. In the emergency room, with the help of the nursing staff, physician assistants work in roles parallel to those of the doctors and independently operate the department where less serious cases are brought after triage, similar to what we call the “walking emergency ward.”

Physician assistants take medical histories, perform physical examinations, and oversee lab tests, imaging and whatever other diagnostic procedures are necessary. In addition, they prescribe medication (their prescriptions are recognized in pharmacies) and in unusual or particularly difficult cases, are able to consult with the doctors in the emergency room. This protocol reduces the immense pressure placed on the full-fledged physicians who are then available to treat the more urgent cases.

Additionally, we saw that physician assistants in the United States also work in additional hospital departments. They may be responsible for admitting patients prior to hospitalization or for performing intake on patients such as stroke victims while they are still in the emergency room before accompanying them to the department. We met physician assistants in outpatient clinics who performed surgical follow-ups and were responsible for rehabilitation programs.

Experience a Memorable Overnight Jewish Initiative

In 2016, Experience a Memorable Overnight Jewish Initiative (EMOJI) was established by Jewish Federation of Greater Toledo and Toledo Jewish Community Foundation. Funded by Foundation's Long-term Community Needs Fund, the EMOJI program was created to make attending Jewish summer camp an option for all Toledo Jewish community children. EMOJI allows Jewish children in the Toledo area to attend Jewish summer camp FREE OF CHARGE for first-time campers, or at a very reduced cost for children who are returning to a Jewish camp.

Attendance at Jewish summer camp has been shown to strengthen participants' connection to their Jewish identity. As a result, they are more likely to value their Jewish heritage, support Jewish causes, and take on leadership roles within their Jewish communities as adults.

So, you’re probably wondering...how does this work? To be eligible for the EMOJI program, the child must live in the greater Toledo area and be in second through tenth grade. The child’s immediate family must also be current donors in good standing to Federation’s Annual Campaign.

What do you need to do to be accepted? Have more questions? Contact Hallie Freed at hallie@jewishtoledo.org or 419-724-0362 or fill out the EMOJI application online at www.jewishtoledo.org/emoji

The future of our Jewish community lies within our children. Federation and Foundation hope to connect you and your children to pivotal Jewish camp experiences that will help create positive and lasting memories for the rest of your lives.

Thank You, Jewish Family Service Board Members!

In April, for National Volunteer Month, Jewish Family Service recognized its board members for all the time, energy, and resources they generously donate to JFS as volunteers throughout the year.

Thank you for working hard to better Jewish Toledo.

Why volunteer for JFS?

“I volunteer because I believe in the mission of JFS. I am inspired by the other volunteers who are all committed to the mission and work diligently and creatively. I hope that my efforts, along with everyone else’s contributions, will leave this community a better place.” – Anita Levin

“Because I make the world a bit better deed by deed.” – Tom Kasle

“Volunteering at JFS is an honor as an opportunity to give back. It is apparent to me every day that the services and programs are impacting many lives. I have learned from the agency leadership, staff, and clients, and I hope my efforts help spread the word about JFS.” – Debbi Skutch

“I learned to be a volunteer from my mother. She was always active in Jewish organizations and taught me that it is important to give back to the community.” – Ross Chaban

“I chose to get involved with the JFS because of the great, unsung work the organization is doing. I enjoy playing a small part in a hard-working team that is really making an impact in our community. I challenge more people to experience the many positive aspects of the JFS and to understand what role the organization plays in not only Jewish Toledo, but our community at large.” – Jeff Green

He soon realizes he is part of Nora’s plan to bring her family back together for one last Passover feast, leading José to reexamine their relationship and rediscover their undying love for each other. Nora’s Will is a comedy like nothing you’ve seen before, a truly unique tale of lost faith and eternal love.

The Mamboniks

Monday, July 8 at 7 p.m.

Running time: 90 minutes | English

Bagels meet bongos in The Mamboniks, a 90-minute documentary film that tells the little-known story of the Jewish love affair with Latin music. Now retired yet still dancing in Florida, they share their passion for the mambo.

Running time: 62 minutes | English and Yiddish with subtitles

Canadian funnymen and best friends return to their hometown to explore their heritage by eating their way across the city in the noshumentary Chewdaism: A Taste of Jewish Montreal. Comedy duo Eli Batalion and Jamie Elman are creators and co-stars of YidLife Crisis, a successful Yiddish language web series exploring, with charm and jocular snark, the burning questions and absurdities of contemporary Jewish life. They traveled the world with their show, documenting Jewish food cultures from New York to London to Tel Aviv.

CLOSING NIGHT

Shoelaces

Monday, July 22 at 7 p.m.

Running time: 90 minutes | Hebrew with English subtitles

Shoelaces tells the story of a complicated relationship between an aging father, Reuben, and his special-needs son, Gadi, who Reuben abandoned while Gadi was still a young boy. Through the film’s portrayal of a relationship full of love, rejection, and co-dependency, it manages to shed some light and question the importance of human life, human connection, and if life is even possible without either one of them.

JFS Family Pantry debuts with new signage, dedicated parking area
By Emily Gordon

Visitors to Jewish Family Service this spring may have noticed its food pantry’s recent name change and new signage. JFS Food Pantry has been renamed JFS Family Pantry to reflect the dignity in service clients receive, said Nancy Newbury, former JFS executive director.

New signage bearing “JFS Family Pantry” is just one of the enhancements the pantry received this year, thanks to the generosity of an anonymous donor. To increase clients’ comfort and to maximize privacy, the Sekach Building’s west entrance and new parking area were created solely for the use of pantry clients.

In addition, a video doorbell system was installed, allowing staff to monitor the area and welcome only those who have an appointment. Known for its quality of food, fresh produce and perishables, and caring staff who treat each client with dignity and respect, the pantry’s new name comes two years after a major expansion.

“The expansion doubled the pantry’s space and the acquisition of a commercial refrigerator and freezer allowed for a more “supermarket-esque” experience for clients, allowing them to receive fresh produce and have more choice in their food items,” said former JFS executive director Gil Gorbut. “The anonymous donor said they value the many services JFS provides to the community and were inspired to help make the vision of the Family Pantry a reality. “I believe this organization exemplifies the values of Tikkun Olam, making the world a better place, by providing resources to help people in need,” they said. “This particular project, to create a separate, more private entrance and waiting area that would allow for a more comfortable and respectful experience for JFS clients, was in keeping with these values, and I wanted to be a part of making it happen.”

Donor generosity made the pantry’s transformation possible, Newbury said. “The client experience doesn’t get any better. In addition to getting the food that they need, people also receive community resource information, guidance, and support,” Newbury said. “Being a case management pantry enables staff to spend time with each person, learn about their situation, and guide them to other resources for additional help. They appreciate the time that we spend with them.”

One client has since said that their experience at JFS Family Pantry gave them confidence and encouraged them. Another client agrees. “You are treated like a real person. You don’t have to stand in line and you don’t look down on us as a lower class just because we need help,” they said. “I appreciate the dignity shown to me in this difficult season of my life.”

Mentoring for literacy

Mentors in Toledo Schools is a program that is offered by Partners in Education, to help students in grades K-3rd strengthen their literacy skills. We provide qualified volunteers to work 1 on 1 with students with quality activities provided by their teachers.

Volunteers can work with students for 30 minutes a week, up to 8 hours a week. We are flexible with scheduling. We currently need 40+ volunteers as we just expanded into two more schools. To volunteer, or for more information, please email me at hhenson@partners Toledo.org

Men’s duplicate bridge relocating

For many years, Allan Miller and Dave Shall have organized a men’s Duplicate Bridge game on Tuesday evenings at 7 p.m. hosted by a rotation of players in their homes. As of this month, Steve Moskowitz and Bobby Kripke are assuming their duties. They will begin on February 12 and play every Tuesday at the Sekach building on the Federation campus at 7 p.m.

If you are interested in playing men’s Duplicate Bridge and joining in on the game, please e-mail us at robert.kripke@gmail.com and mosko1950@yahoo.com. Experienced players only, please. The game has a minimal cost and is an opportunity to be with your friends and test your bridge skills. Refreshments and snacks are provided. We ask that whoever wishes to play to e-mail Bobby and Steve a week in advance so we can plan how many tables we need to have set up. We currently have between 4-8 tables depending on the snowbirds and we would like to see this game grow. Thanks, and a happy, healthy new year to all!

The role of physician assistant is a new one in the Israeli medical system. Currently, there are only a few dozen registered physicians who work only in emergency rooms in various hospitals around the country. Today the goal is to significantly increase their numbers in the coming years, to expand their roles to areas beyond the emergency room and to transform their professional status to one similar to what exists today in the United States.

In Toledo, we also met with members of the local sheriff’s office and were introduced to their D.A.R.T. (Drug Abuse Response Team) Program aimed at combatting the high mortality rate as a result of drug addiction in the local population in coordination with the staff of the medical center we visited.

We would like to sincerely thank the Galilee Medical Center’s administration and the Foreign Affairs Department as well as our valued friends from the Western Galilee Midwest Consortium Partnership program for the opportunity, for their assistance and for their support in ensuring the success of our visit to the United States. We also extend our heartfelt thanks to all the dear members of the Toledo Jewish community and the amazing staff of the Toledo University Medical Center who so warmly welcomed us into their midst.

Harriet Theise, 17, is proud to represent team USA at the 14th Pan American Maccabi Games in Mexico City, Mexico, this summer. She will be a defensive player on the indoor volleyball team and one of two players on the sand team. Harriet previously represented team USA in beach volleyball in 2017 at the 20th World Maccabiah Games in Israel. One difference this time around is that there will be absolutely no practice time before the games. Harriet considers competing in the games to be the most incredible thing she’s ever done. “Going cross country to compete in a competition solely for Jewish people is something I couldn’t even have dreamt of. No matter the sport, or outcome of the game, we are all family in the end,” Harriet said. The Southview junior is the daughter of Kate and Michael Theise and sister of Hillary Theise. She feels very lucky to have the support of the Jewish community behind her as she competes. “Every time I tell people I am going or have done this in the past, the entire Jewish community knows about this and is behind me 100 percent. Volleyball is one of my favorite things and pairing that with my Jewish heritage is so fulfilling,” she said. Those who wish to donate to help Harriet achieve her fundraising goal to get to the games can make a direct donation to tinyurl.com/HarrietTheise19 or send a check with “Harriet Theise” in the memo line directly to the Maccabi USA office: 1511 Walnut Street, Suite 401, Philadelphia, PA 19102

Inheritance: A Memoir of Genealogy, Paternity, and Love by Dani Shapiro
Cathy Sperling will be the discussion leader.
In the spring of 2016, through a genealogy website to which she had whimsically submitted her DNA, Dani Shapiro received the astonishing news that her beloved deceased father was not her biological father. Over the course of a single day, her entire history—the life she had lived—crumbled beneath her. In just a few hours of Internet sleuthing, she was able to piece together the story of her conception and, remarkably, find a You Tube video of her biological father—his face and mannerisms eerily similar to her own.
Dani Shapiro’s memoir unfolds at a breakneck pace—part mystery, part real-time investigation, part rumination on the ineffable combination of memory, history, biology, and experience that makes us who we are. A haunting interrogation of the meaning of kinship and identity, written with stunning intensity and precision—Dani Shapiro’s most intimate and compelling work yet.
The book is available at the Toledo Lucas County Public Library and its affiliates on Search Ohio, through Amazon.com, and Barnes & Noble.

Grandmothers have a knack for kvelling over their grandchildren’s successes. Sky Bergman turned the tables by making and sharing a short video kvelling over her 99-year-old grandmother, Evelyn Ricciuti, working out at the gym.

Little did either of them know, this short, on-the-fly recording would be the catalyst to a much bigger project: Bergman’s directorial debut Lives Well Lived. Lives Well Lived is a documentary film exploring through Bergman’s interviews how 40 people ages 75 to 100 have lived their lives to the fullest.

“My inspiration for the Lives Well Lived project was my 103-year-old Italian grandmother who enjoyed exercising some of the nominees, she realized, “Grandma, you’re the oldest of the old people.” Bergman called. “Look at how you’ve lived your life.” Bergman said. “I believe the more personal the story, the more universal it becomes, and this film’s message becomes so universal.”

Once Bergman started interviewing some of the nominees, she realized the project needed to be much bigger than what it started out as.

“The moment I realized this project would be more than just a web series is when I was interviewing Marion Wolf and her husband Paul Wolf. They are both Holocaust survivors and, being Jewish, growing up Jewish, I knew many things about the Holocaust, but there’s a lot that I did not know about the Kindertransport,” she recalled. “Marion vividly remembers Kristallnacht through the eyes of an eight-year-old. She had been on the Kindertransport. In fact, she had signed herself up for it. When she was telling me her story I was mesmerized. She took out her card board number that she kept from the Kindertransport I realized this project has to be a feature film.”

Bergman began seeking out specific stories that she thought needed to be told to an audience in order to learn from society’s mistakes and hope not to repeat them.

“For example, it was important to tell the story of the Japanese internment during World War II. I feel with history, especially World War II, people think ‘That happened long ago and over there in Europe.’ Well, this happened not so long ago and right here. The Japanese internment is something I didn’t learn about until I moved to California,” Bergman said. “Looking back at our history gives us an opportunity to learn from our mistakes.”

For four years, Bergman listened to 40 older adults invited her, and eventually viewers, into their lives. Older adults are often overlooked and dismissed by society, Bergman said.

Lives Well Lived gives them a platform to share all they can offer to a wider audience.

They have much they can give in terms of advice and life lessons, such as how they stayed optimistic and strong.

“The last 100 years is the first time in human history that we haven’t looked to our elders for advice. Before this time, they were revered, held the history of our culture, were looked to for help with big decisions. Now that’s been replaced by Googling. That’s simplistic, but there’s huge value you’re really missing out on if you don’t connect with your elders,” she said. “I believe that everyone has at least one amazing story to tell and that everyone has something to teach. What a gift it is to sit down with people and really listen. It is a golden opportunity for us to learn from our elders.”

It’s an especially meaningful opportunity for viewers who were never able to talk in-depth with their grandparents about their lives, Bergman added.

In fact, the film has sparked several intergenerational collaborations at high schools, colleges, and senior centers, including one between students in professor Sara Bartlett’s Psychology of Aging class at Bergman’s university and residents of The Villages of San Luis Obispo to share their life stories.

“I see it as the next phase of this project. After spending time together, the students and the residents realize they have much more similarities than differences, and age is the only real difference,” she said.

The filmmaker knows this well. Her grandmother used to call her and ask “How is your project going with all the old people?” Bergman recalls. “I’d laugh and say ‘Grandma, you’re the oldest of the old people.’”

Her grandmother continued to live the expression “Age is just a number; you are only as old as you feel.” Bergman’s grandmother did get to see an early cut of the film on the big screen in 2016 at the San Luis Obispo International Film Festival sneak preview screening.

Of the 40 participants in the film, 27 attended, and she greeted everyone at the door, Bergman said. “It was a big party. She was a very proud grandma.”

Evelyn Ricciuti passed away six weeks later at 103-and-a-half years old.

“She literally said I’m done. She was very clear. She stopped eating and drinking and taking pills, she would spit them out if someone tried to give them to her. She had lived her life. She had done and seen all she wanted,” Bergman said.

However, her grandmother’s lessons live on, and so will those of the film’s participants.

“Your stories, your advice, your perspective, your input matters and is wanted by others,” Bergman said. “That’s what Lives Well Lived teaches us.”

The filmmaker is collecting inspiring stories about lives well lived to share on the film’s website. A questionnaire is provided for those who would like to participate and the submission of photos is encouraged. Participants may share their own stories or share a story on behalf of others with their permission.

“I wanted to be as inclusive as possible, and one of the ways to do that is by providing the questions I used with the people I interviewed in the film for others to use in sharing their stories. The most difficult thing in collecting stories is where to start. By sharing the questions with everyone, it gives people a starting point to begin the conversation,” Bergman said.

Letter to the Editor

President Trump and the Toledo Blade are correct in calling for the Golan Heights, occupied by Israel in the 1967 war, to be recognized as part of the state of Israel. Some people still call for that land to be returned to Syria, but it is time for them to accept the reality that nations are created largely through the use of military force.

Before World War I, there were no independent countries named Turkey, Syria, Lebanon, Palestine, Jordan, Iraq and Israel. That territory was all part of the Ottoman Empire with its capital in Istanbul. The Ottomans allied themselves with Germany in the war, so when the conflict ended the victorious allies of France and Great Britain carved up the empire to create the countries that now make up the Middle East.

The United States of America was created through the use of force against the various indigenous tribes that were here and then against France, Great Britain and Mexico. If a United Nations organization had existed in the 1840’s, it no doubt would have condemned the U.S. for going to war against Mexico and seizing Texas, California and their adjacent territories. Would anybody today argue that we should return that land to Mexico?

Hillel inspired by alternative spring break experience

By Sarah Kuljian, BGSU Hillel Jewish Student Life Coordinator

Give Kids the World really means it when they say their village is a place “where happiness inspires hope.” Co-leading Bowl- ing Green State University Hill- el’s alternative spring break at Give Kids the World Village is an experience I will not soon forget. Shayna Swedlow, my coworker at Toledo Hillel, and I brought five BGSU Hillel student leaders to the village and volunteered there for four days. GKTWV is a nonprofit resort in Kissimmee, Florida, that provides weeklong, cost-free vacations to children with life-threatening illnesses and their families. They often partner with children who make wishes to visit attractions in central Florida. Since 1986, more than 167,000 families from all 50 states and 76 countries have come to this amazing place and had their dreams fulfilled. I have heard about this village and spring break experience over the years from students who have gone, but this year, I was finally able to be a part of it. Now I know why students return year after year to participate in this amazing spring break.

Henri Landwirth, z”l, founder of GKTW, wanted to ensure that every child wishing to visit attractions in central Florida would have that wish granted. Landwirth was a Holocaust survivor and knew what it was like to not have a childhood. He spent much of his teenage years in concentration camps, including Auschwitz and Mauthausen. Landwirth miraculously survived, made his way to NYC on a freight ship, was drafted into the army, and eventually landed a position in a hotel. He had a successful career in the hotel industry and upon retirement he devoted himself to improving the lives of those in need. In 1986, Landwirth started a project to provide magical experiences through vacations for critically ill children and their families. By 1989, this project had turned into GKTWV and his dream became a reality.

There is plenty to do on site. BGSU Hillel student leaders to the village and volunteered there for four days. By 1989, this project had turned into GKTWV and his dream became a reality. Today, the village is an 84-acre resort with 168 villas, daily entertainment, activities, and whimsical venues and characters. Everything is accessible to children of all abilities, and if they are not feeling up to leaving the village, there is plenty to do on site.

I had the privilege to help carry out Landwirth’s vision through my daily shifts at the village. These included serving drinks in Café Clayton, recruiting participants for Village Idol, and becoming a character in the holiday parade. One shift that stands out to me is when I helped run Disney character day. One morning a week, several Disney characters come to GKTWV to meet and take photos with families. I worked with Mary Poppins, who was a delight, and everyone was so excited to meet her. I held coats for families, took their photos, and engaged them while they waited to see Mary Poppins. These interactions, whether they were a wave, a smile, or full-on conversations, were my favorite part of volunteering. GKTWV staff reminded us to treat every person in the same, kind way. Often siblings of the “wish kid” feel left out. Also, sometimes non-verbal children visit the village, and they need to feel included as well. It seems intuitive, but this advice resonated with me. I took it to heart and tried to have genuine interactions and conversations with each and every person that I met.
